DHANKHAR IS NDA'S PICK FOR VICE PREZ

Jagdeep Dhankhar's life story reflects new India's spirit: BJP

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

ENDING all speculation, the BJP on Saturday announced West Bengal Governor Jagdeep Dhankhar as the vice presidential candidate of the ruling National Democratic Alliance.

The decision was taken at the BJP's parliamentary board meeting in Delhi on Saturday evening. Several names of potential candidates were doing the rounds, including that of former Union minister Mukhtar Abbas Naqvi. The move to choose Dhankhar, a Jat leader from Rajasthan, holds significance as the state goes to polls next year.

Jagdeep Dhankhar

The BJP said his life story reflects the spirit of new India - overcoming innumerable social and economic hurdles and achieving his goal. Dhankhar's election as vice president is almost a certainty as the BJP has majority in the electoral college comprising members of the Lok Sabha and the Rajya Sabha. He will also take over as Rajya Sabha chairman, where the BJP is still short of an absolute majority and has to depend on other parties to pass controversial legislative business. Dhankhar, 71, has been locked in a pitched battle with West Bengal Chief Mamata Banerjee since he took over as governor in July 2019. Notably, Mamata met Dhankhar two days ago at the governor's house in Darjeeling, where Assam Chief Minister Himanta Biswa Sarma was also present. Although Mamata termed the visit a courtesy call, political observers say it's significant.

After the announcement, Prime Minister Narendra Modi tweeted, "He brings with him an illustrious legal, legislative and gubernatorial career. He has always worked for the well-being of farmers, youth, women, and the marginalised."

The CPM termed Dhankhar's candidature a reflection of under-the-table relations between the TMC and the BJP. State Congress president Adhir Ranjan Chowdhury said Dhankhar was close to the BJP and that's why the saffron camp announced his name. Dhankhar was instrumental in getting OBC status for Jats in Rajasthan. An ex-president of the Rajasthan High Court Bar Association, he was an MP from Jhunjhunu during 1989-91, representing Janata Dal.

TMC: No comments

The TMC chose to maintain silence over the development. "At present, we are not making any statement. Our party supremo Mamata Banerjee has convened a meeting on July 21 inviting all MPs to discuss party's plan of action regarding the Parliament session and V-P elections," said TMC spokesperson Kunal Ghosh

Lankan parl starts process to elect new prez

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

SRI Lanka's Parliament held a special 13-minute session on Saturday to kick-start the process to elect a new president, with four contenders, including acting President Ranil Wickremesinghe joining the race to head the next government.

During the session, Dhammika Dassanayake, Secretary General of Parliament, announced the vacancy for the post of president after the resignation Rajapaksa. He informed the House that nominations for Presidency should be submitted to him on July 19.

"I served my motherland to the best of my ability," Gotabaya wrote in the letter sent from Singapore. Blaming the pandemic for the crisis, he said, "I was compelled to order lockdowns and the foreign exchange situation deteriorated," Gotabaya said.

Gotabaya Rajapaksa

He reached Singapore on Thursday. As he has not sought or been granted asylum in Singapore, he will have to leave within two weeks. There has been a growing speculation on where he will head next with Saudi Arabia emerging as a possible destination.

Congress, BJP in war of words over Setalvad

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Ahmedabad / New Delhi

A bitter war of words erupted between the Congress and the BJP on Saturday over the Gujarat Special Investigation Team (SIT) affidavit's claim that the grand old party gave ₹30 lakh to activist Teesta Setalvad in 2002 to destabilise the state government, then headed by Narendra Modi as chief minister.

According to the affidavit filed in the sessions court on Friday, Setalvad had entered into a larger conspiracy at the behest of late Congress leader Ahmed Patel to dismiss the BJP government in the state.

It added that she obtained illegal money and other benefits from the grand old party. P10

Officials beware! Typos in Kannada may lead to pay cut

ASHWINI M SRIPAD @ Bengaluru

STATE government employees, beware! You may get a cut in your salary and even be denied promotion if you make typing errors or grammatical mistakes while drafting government orders or circulars in Kannada. The Kannada Development Authority (KDA) has made recommendations in this regard to the government.

On Friday, the Department of Personnel and Administrative Reforms (DPAR) had issued an order prohibiting recording of videos and taking photographs inside government offices. After facing criticism, the government issued another order withdrawing its previous notification. But the new order copy of seven lines had seven glaring mistakes, in which the official made several grammatical mistakes including the word Karnataka. Speaking to TNSE, KDA Chairman TS Nagabharana said this is happening as the officials who are typing as well as issuing the notification or order do not take the language seriously. P4

Following criticism from various quarters, Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai on Saturday directed that the order banning photography and videography inside goverment offices, issued on Friday, be revoked. P4

Messiah with coracle ferries rain-hit families

K SHIVA KUMAR @ Mysuru

HEAVY rain and floods in Cauvery river have cut off 25 families of a private layout in Srirangapatna from the rest of the town for the last one week.

Rising to the occasion, Mujahid Pasha, who runs a chicken stall near Wellesly Bridge, came as a messiah for the affected families.

Pasha, 40, uses his coracle to ferry stranded families and their children in his own humble way, free of cost.

Pasha had purchased the coracle for ₹6,000 and used it for fishing in Cauvery.

He now uses it to deliver food and other essential items to families and to take students to schools as the river is flowing above the danger mark with irrigation officials releasing 80,000 cusecs of water.

Office-goers and children use his services, while people with illness call Pasha before taking an appointment with doctors. Many who have constructed houses in the layout had no problem all these years. P5

When I heard that the bridge connecting the layout has collapsed and people were cut off from the mainland, I decided to help them using my coracle. I make eight to 10 trips from the pump house to the layout to help schoolchildren and office-goers reach their homes safely

SOLAR POWER, THE WAY FORWARD

47-year-old Sanjay Deshpande, a Hubballi-based architect, is on a mission to promote solar energy and do his bit to the environment

ARUNKUMAR HURALIMATH
@Hubballi

THE Sun, the very source of life, gives us everything, from essential vitamins to nourishing the environment. As global warming is affecting us in myriad ways, tapping abundant energy from the Sun and using it to replace non-renewable energy sources, like fossil fuels, is the way forward. This architect-cum-solar man from Hubballi, 47-year-old Sanjay Deshpande, has clearly understood this.

Sanjay uses solar power to meet energy needs of his entire house and also office. He drives an electric car and also runs solar-powered pumps to water his garden. In monetary terms, his savings are Rs 18,000 per month and apart from this, he earns Rs 1,000 from the power supply company by selling the solar power he generates.

It was a visit from the father of one of his friends, when Sanjay was studying in Mumbai, that inspired him to start tapping free and green solar power. The friend's father advised Sanjay to place a solar panel outside the window to protect the room from scorching sunlight and also to generate power to run the fan throughout the night without any disruption.

Sanjay says, "Earlier, I used to pay Rs 4,000 as electricity bill. I have two-electric vehicles, household machinery, pumps to water the terrace garden, fountains and more. Last year, I installed solar panels on the rooftop. I was given permission to set up a solar system that generates an average 4.2 kW of solar energy, which is supplied to the Hubballi Electricity Supply Company (Hescom) after my usage. Hescom, after deducting my electricity bill, returns anywhere between Rs 500 and Rs 1,000 every month," he says.

> Instead of giving free electricity to farmers and the poor, the government should provide them with solar power generating equipment which is a one-time investment and also runs without any power supply disruption
> Sanjay Deshpande

He has also placed small solar panels on windows and balconies which generate small quantities of energy to light up the veranda and bed lamps. There are many lights that automatically come on after dusk with the help of sensors reducing wastage.

He has turned his office too green. Six months ago, he installed solar panels of 3kW capacity and has not used power supplied by Hescom since then, and pays only the meter charges every month. "There are three types of solar panels - monocrystalline, polycrystalline and thin-film. I installed monocrystalline panels which are highly efficient even during rain and generate over 60 per cent power," he adds.

Every day, he travels anywhere between 50 and 60 km to reach various work sites. His wife too uses an electric car to go to the office. Earlier, their monthly fuel expense was around Rs 18,000. Recently, they shifted to electric vehicles, saving money and also the environment.

Besides implementing green ideas in new constructions in Hubballi-Dharwad, he tries to influence the government to promote solar power and to give big subsidies for related equipment. He has pitched his idea to Prime Minister Narendra Modi too, through a letter. "Instead of giving free electricity to farmers and the poor, the government should provide them with solar power generating equipment which is a one-time investment and also runs without any power supply disruption," he says.

"Everyone should make use of solar energy as it is abundantly available and makes us self-reliant. You will get back the investment on solar energy systems in 4-5 years. As they run for another 10-15 years, you will save a lot of money in power bills. The government should come up with new policies to promote solar energy," he concludes.

Biker from Udupi enthusiastically pursues her passion, masters circuit and dirt track racing

HITTING THE RACETRACK

PRAKASH SAMAGA @ Udupi

THIS bikerni is elated when astride her bike, and becomes one with the machine as she tears down a race track. It's almost as if the bike breathes life into her. Apoorva Bykadi (25), whose passion for two hot wheels took her to dirt track tracing, has proved that the sport is not confined to the male domain. Unafraid of bruises and scars that accompany the sport, she pursues her passion rather seriously.

Ever since she was 16, Apoorva had always wanted to take up bike racing, which she thought was an expensive sport. While pursuing mechanical engineering at Nitte, she didn't think much about it, especially as she was also into basketball and handball. She had also won a bronze in Muay Thai Indian National Federation, organised by the Senior National Amateur Muay Thai Championship, held in Sikkim in 2017.

Yet, Apoorva never let go her dream of bike racing, though there were no options to learn it in the coastal districts. She thought she should go to Chennai for lessons, but continued with normal biking, tamping down on her enthusiasm.

In 2015, she joined the Mangalore Bikerni Group, which set her on the path of adventure. "We have a team in Mangalore Bikerni, an all-woman riders' chapter in the coastal city When I joined the group, I started enjoying and exploring biking," she says.

After her mechanical engineering in 2018, Apoorva joined an edutech company in Udupi as a business development associate, but the 9-5 job meant giving up sports, and she began feeling listless. Quite suddenly, things changed when she came across a poster on Instagram about a TVS one-make championship to be held in Bengaluru in 2019. "In a one-make championship, everybody gets bikes of the same make to compete. It was a training and selection process," she said. "I never thought I would get selected back then. But I did, and the tricks I learnt there helped me a lot. Initially, it was circuit racing, but now I am into dirt track racing as well," she said.

There were 45 women of different age groups, many of them social media stars. Apoorva got selected from South Zone. At the MRF MoGrip FMSCI Indian National Rally Championship 2W event (ladies class) held in Chikkamagaluru, and the Rally De Mangaluru - Round 2 of MRF MoGrip FMSCI Indian National Rally Championship in Panja, Apoorva won second prize. She is confident of giving her best in the upcoming rounds as well.

She threw up her job to pursue her passion, with parents Bharathi and B K Narayan extending all support. "I'm happy that my parents accepted my preference. My father let me explore the sport independently," Apoorva says with pride.

She has honed many biking skills, like how to lean, turn and brake, especially after she joined 'KAT Racing' in Mangaluru. Superbike mechanic and KAT Racing owner Yogish helped her learn the intricacies of the machine. Apoorva also got her modified Hero Impulse from Yogish, who tunes bikes for races.

Racing is an amazing experience, she contends. "Circuit racing is all about speed and braking. The mind is completely focused. One second of distraction can play spoilsport. Dirt track racing is about body balance, endurance and managing our bikes. Both categories need different skill sets. Dirt racing is rather tough as there are obstacles like stones, gravels, mud and slush, and needs all parts of the body to focus on it," she says.

Racing championships means spending a tidy sum of money, she admits. Entry fee is usually high, and for national rallies, each round has a fee of ₹4,000, with six rounds in all. The rider has to get a mechanic along as the bike can break down, and caretakers and friends also accompany the rider.

LONG WAIT

Residents await rail underbridge to battle traffic

S LALITHA @ Bengaluru

SEVEN years ago, the Railway Board approved the construction of a road underbridge (RUB) between the railway stations in Yesvantpur and Malleswaram to eliminate the railway level crossing (LC) gate at Milk Colony Road. However, there is no clarity either from the BBMP nor railways on when it would materialise. Every time a train passes, there are long queues on both sides of the gate.

Originally planned as a road overbridge (ROB) 12 years ago, it was later converted into an RUB as it would ensure less land acquisition. The project was approved by the Railway Board in 2014-2015 on a 50:50 cost sharing basis with the state government. The main bridge would be built by the constructions department of the South Western Railway Zone while construction of the approach roads would be BBMP's responsibility.

Priti Rajesh, a resident of Brigade Gateway residential complex nearby, told TNSE was miffed about the serpentine queues on either side of the gate during peak morning and evening hours. "There are two schools here and a hospital. It is really annoying to watch ambulances getting stuck in front of the gate. LC gate was meant to be eliminated years ago but there is no progress," she said.

Retired bank official CR Venkatesh, who resides nearby, said, "It is a 15-minute wait. When two trains pass within a short span, it is more than 20 minutes."

A top official from the construction department said that BBMP has to ready the general alignment plan. "A joint meeting was held by both departments in February this year. The general arrangement drawing needs to be approved by both BBMP and the Railways before the project can move forward," he said.

BBMP Chief Engineer, Road Infrastructure, Prahlad Rao had a different version. He said, "Railways has conducted a technical feasibility study here and submitted the report to its headquarters in Hubballi for approval which needs to come first," he said. MLA Dr CN Ashwath Narayan, who had inspected the area in December 2021 and promised remedial steps, did not respond to repeated calls from TNSE.

Get vaxxed to taper off Covid: CM

Our aim is to vaccinate all those above the age of 18 in 7,500 govt centres, says Sudhakar

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

CHIEF Minister Basavaraj Bommai, along with Health Minister Dr K Sudhakar, on Saturday virtually launched the "Covid Amrit Mahotsav" free booster dose campaign for those above 18 years of age in 75 government centres.

Lauding scientists and Covid warriors as "leaders" for managing Covid efficiently, Bommai said, "It is essential to manage the residual or tapering effect of any pandemic. That is why the Centre has made the booster dose free. Earlier, whenever there was any epidemic and a vaccination was invented in foreign countries, it took at least 12 years to reach India. We have not just invented the Covid vaccine in a short span, but we have been supplying it to other countries besides vaccinating our own citizens. In the state, we have given the second dose to 5,00,12,051 people above 18 years of age and the coverage is 102 per cent for the first and second doses. Prime Minister Narendra Modi has taken up this ambitious campaign to mark the Azadi ka Amrit Mahotsav and the health department must take it on mission mode. The state government will continue to extend all support."

Sudhakar said, "During the campaign, we have the target to vaccinate all those above 18 years in 7,500 government centres. Many people are not serious about Covid vaccination. Many have completed six months since their second dose and they are at risk. The pace of vaccination alone helped us in our fight against Covid."

Namma Clinics in 3 months

Sudhakar said, "We will come up with Namma Clinics within three months in more than 470 places, including 243 in Bengaluru. The first clinic will be launched on July 28 or in the first week of August in Bengaluru."

Full support to make state malaria-free by 2025: Min

ENS @ Bengaluru

HEALTH Minister Dr K Sudhakar pledged to extend full support to eliminate malaria from the state and country.

At a workshop organised by the Health Department, he said that with continuous surveillance, testing and awareness programmes, cases have come down. The help from NGOs and the public will be required in addition to the government programmes to achieve the target by 2025, he added.

He said it is important to create awareness, especially in places seeing an uptick in malaria cases like Dakshina Kannada and Udupi. Even in areas with no cases, proper vigilance must be ensured, he added. In 2020, 1,86,532 malaria cases were detected across the country, of which Karnataka accounted for only 1,701 cases or 0.9 per cent. Only 100 malaria cases have been recorded in the past six months. But with monsoon setting in, the state is seeing a rise in cases in Dakshina Kannada and Udupi and areas close to forests, he said.

Dr Rinku Sharma, joint director, National Centre for Vector Borne Diseases, appreciated that Karnataka moved from category 1 to category 2. Since the transmission season is on, vector control strategies must be put in place, she added.

Anita Chebbi, senior director, APLA-APMEN, said Karnataka's progress on malaria elimination is a good example of what can be achieved with sustained political commitment to public health goals.

AMENDMENTS SOON TO ALLOW SPL INVESTMENT ZONES: BOMMAI

Techonology should flow to Tier-2, 3 cities and not be Bengaluru-centric, says chief minister

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Hubballi

CHIEF Minister Basavaraj Bommai on Saturday said that necessary amendments would be brought to existing laws in the upcoming legislature session to enable establishment of special investment regions in Dharwad and Tumakuru.

Bommai, who holds the finance portfolio, had announced in the budget the decision to set up the two special investment regions. The government has drafted the Special Investment Region Bill to ensure the implementation of this initiative.

Bommai was speaking after laying the foundation stone for the new building of the Karnataka Material Testing and Research Centre here on Saturday.

"With the establishment of special investment regions, Dharwad and Tumakuru will be developed into major industrial hubs. It will lead to economic development of the two regions," Bommai claimed.

He said that the government is committed to improving the facilities at the Karnataka Material Testing and Research Centre and would sanction Rs 4 crore to buy advanced equipment.

Reiterating his government's promise for industrial growth of the region, the CM said that the proposed FMCG cluster at Dharwad would not only house hundreds of small and large industries, but also expected to generate one lakh jobs.

Later, inaugurating a state-level conference of the district chambers of commerce and industry here, Bommai said capital investment and technology, which are Bengaluru-centric, should flow down to Tier-2 and Tier-3 cities to ensure the state's inclusive and equitable growth. "Tier-2 and Tier-3 cities should also have technology-driven industries. That will help them to have a solid foundation for further growth," he added.

"Small cities have abundant talent and ingenuity and that should be harnessed by the chambers." he said and appealed to the chambers not to stick to trade and commerce and to diversify using technology to help the youth of the region.

"Local industries should take advantage of the upcoming Global Investors' Meet," he appealed. "While the governments have adopted a market economy after liberalisation, all the major economic decisions are market driven and they are affecting the common man. Amidst liberalisation, privatisation, and globalisation, conscientiousness has been forgotten, which needs to be reestablished," he added.

Being a progressive state, Karnataka is in the forefront of all industrial and investment indexes, he said.

"The new Research and Development policy would be dealt with in the next cabinet meeting and a new employment policy was in the offing," he added.

On the issue of GST on prepackaged food, Bommai invited the representatives of the chambers to meet him to discuss their apprehensions. He said that since he was heading the group of ministers for all new taxation, issues raised would be sent to the fitment committee.

He said steps will be taken to resolve the issue of double taxation at industrial areas. "Will bring in single taxation, and self-assessment of tax will also be introduced for industries," Bommai added.

SUNDAY INTERVIEW

'RSS version of Hinduism, Hindutva are masks for imposing 4-fold caste system'

BANSY KALAPPA@ Bengaluru

DEVANUR Mahadeva, easily a legend in his own lifetime, carries an aura around him as he greets his friends and admirers in his inimitable style. His latest book 'RSS -- Aala Mathu Agala,' which is critical of RSS, has already sold 86,000 copies in about a fortnight, which is a record, and there is a great demand for more copies. The book, whose title literally means the depth and extent of RSS, looks at the nature and objectives of the organisation and brings to fore the real RSS. It talks of how Dalits have been at the receiving end of RSS, thanks to untouchability and other related practices. It delves on issues like Varnashrama which classifies communities based on birth, Manusmriti which is a strong statement of oppression against the lower castes, Aryan Brahminical supremacy and changes to the Constitution.

Some say there is nothing new in what you have said in the book, because all these issues have been mentioned at one point or another.
Let us leave out saying 'some say', please tell me what you would like to say. Yes, what you are saying appears to be factually correct. But also remember, RSS -- Aala Mathu Agala was published about a fortnight ago and has already sold about 86,000 copies and if there is a demand for more, why is it so?

You have said the foot soldiers of hate campaigns are from lower castes. You have called them 'Dari thappida makkalu' (those who have been misguided) and that the real brains behind these campaigns are the upper castes... You have spoken of them propagating a casteist mindset. Can you elaborate?
Let me answer both these questions together. RSS version of Hinduism and Hindutva are just masks for imposing a four-fold caste system, where the lower castes mandatorily serve the upper castes as menial servants. Should lower castes and backward communities, as is the practice in the four-fold caste system hierarchy, remain mere servants serving the others? What more has to be elaborated here I dont' understand. I believe all these issues have been sufficiently elaborated in this book.

You have spoken about three ideological pillars of the RSS — imposition of varnashrama, Aryan supremacy and annihilation of the Constitution...
Varnashrama dharma, Manu Smriti and Aryan supremacy.. What kind of bizarre ideologies are these? These are what you call regressive and demonic beliefs. RSS' life goal is to demolish the Indian Constitution. These issues have been discussed in the book.

Is it true that on social media, like Facebook, some have decided to block the book?
It is high time that social media like Facebook needs a face.

What was the purpose of writing the book on RSS? Do you think you have achieved it?
Whether the book has been successful or not... after reading the book should you not be the one saying if the book is successful?

You started a political party with SR Hiremath and others seeking to challenge the communal agenda. What has happened to the party?
Sarvodaya Karnataka was a party we started, which was mainly a party of farmers from the Raitha Sanga and the oppressed people from the Dalit Sangharsh Samiti. Other progressive forces also joined in to fortify it. KS Puttannaiah became the leader of this party. I remained only a titular head. Hiremath, as far as I remember, did not occupy any position in this party. This party, which believed in equality, worked in the cultural, social and economic areas to benefit the oppressed and marginalised. This party worked against the stumbling blocks for progress like the caste system and communalism. Now it has been merged with the Swaraj India Party.

'Govt officials must know state language'

SOMETIMES, they draft it in English or take the help of 'Google Translate' , which often leads to mistakes. This is not acceptable. The one who is working with the state government should know the state language, KDA Chairman TS Nagabharana said.

Nagabharana is now writing to CM Basavaraj Bommai and officials recommending to the government to include the names of officials, including the one who typed as well as those who signed and issued the order, on the order copy. Their names should be included in the service record of issuing government orders, notifications and other documents that has mistakes. "All these days, whenever we pointed out, they would send an apology or would say it will not repeat. But now, we will tell them to name the employees who are responsible for the mistakes. If their names are included in service record, they will not be entitled for promotion or hike," he added. Sources from DPAR said that most of the circulars or notifications are typed by the first or second division assistant, who is from Karnataka and knows Kannada. They have to know the language if they are working with Government of Karnataka. However, sometimes, they are under pressure to type the order like the one which was typed late night. These employees do not have enough time to read and rectify".

U-turn: Govt withdraws ban on photos in govt offices within hours

ENS @ Bengaluru

THE order to ban photography and videography by the public in government offices, which was passed on Friday, was withdrawn within hours by Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai after it faced flak from Congress and members of civil society.

Leader of Opposition in the Assembly Siddaramaiah alleged that the government issued the order to shield corruption, while others too slammed it. Rounds of criticism started soon after the order was passed by Department of Personnel Administration Reforms Secretary Ananda K on Friday. Bommai, who was busy attending the Bharatiya Janata Party's daylong Chintan Mantan at a resort on the outskirts of the city, gave instructions to revoke the order. The secretary scurried to axe the order at midnight. The CM's Office too confirmed that the government decided to withdraw the order, which had been issued following a representation from the Government Employees' Association.

Talking to reporters, Bommai admitted that the order had not come to his notice. But he defended his action to withdraw it as his government is transparent and there is nothing to hide from the public's glare. "Government employees used to insist on such a ban, as taking photos of women employees had caused problems earlier. There was a meaning to their demand. But our government is transparent, let whoever dispute it. I took the decision in principle to continue with things as they were," Bommai clarified.

BJP to hold rally to mark first anniversary of Bommai govt

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

BJP is holding a big rally in Doddaballapura, around 40 km from Bengaluru, on July 28 to mark the first anniversary of Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai's government. Bommai said a decision to organise the rally was taken at the party leaders' meeting in Bengaluru on Friday and the government will hold a separate programme on that day.

Around one lakh people, including beneficiaries of various government schemes, will attend the rally to highlight the Bommai government's flagship programmes and achievements. Many central leaders are also likely to attend the programme to send a message that they are strongly backing the Bommai government that has come under fire from opposition Congress over various issues.

BJP General Secretary and MLC N Ravi Kumar said the party decided Doddaballapura as the venue, as such a programme in Bengaluru would have caused traffic congestion.

The party is also planning to hold two rallies every month in different parts of the state to popularise the government's programmes.

BJP General Secretary Mahesh Tenginkai said that Bommai will visit 50 Assembly segments to attend meetings of beneficiaries of government programmes. BJP state president Nalin Kumar Kateel will visit all the districts to strengthen the party, he added.

Mahesh said many Congress and JDS MLAs from Old Mysuru and Kalyana-Karnataka regions are in touch with senior BJP leaders and are likely to join the party.

Kerur families stick to stand, refuse Siddu's aid

MAHESH M GOUDAR

A day after Rajma Bismilla, the wife of one of the injured in the recent Kerur violence, threw away the ₹2 lakh compensation given by Congress Legislature Party leader Siddaramaiah, the former stuck to her stand on Saturday saying she and the affected only want justice.

On Friday, Siddaramaiah, who represents Badami in the Assembly, had met the injured from both the groups. He handed over a compensation of Rs 50,000 each to four families. However, Rajma turned down the money and threw it at his convoy. After the incident, Siddaramaiah made another attempt to convince the woman and the other families to accept the compensation given from his own pocket on humanitarian grounds. The affected families refused once again to accept the money and instead demanded justice. Speaking to reporters, Rajma, wife of the injured dhaba owner, said "We don't want the compensation. We know how to run our families. Our priority is peace between both the groups and justice to the families." "We refused to take the compensation when the supporters of Siddaramaiah tried to convince us. We have returned them all the money. We are not expecting compensation either from the government or politicians," she added.

Meanwhile, the family members of another injured accepted the compensation after much persuasion.

Arun Kattimani, district secretary of Hindu Jagaran Vedike, who was stabbed in the violence, demanded the police to arrest the main accused.

"We had no intention of meeting Siddaramaiah. We demanded that the police first arrest the main accused and provide clarity on justice to the victims from the Badami MLA. They failed to deliver on the promise. So, we refused to meet Siddaramaiah. All we want is justice," said Kattimani.

NEP DECODED

NEP BETWEEN THE LINES!

Dr Prabhudev
Former Vice-Chancellor, Bangalore University

THE aim of NEP 2020 was clear – to replace the Congress-era policy of 1986 and bring in a 21st century vision of education. I do not agree that there is any stamp of saffron on it. It is a pragmatic and forward-looking education policy. The National Education Policy 2020 document promises big and bold moves and a new order. The policy has also been criticised due to the legal complexities surrounding the applicability of two operative policies, namely The Right to Education Act, 2009 and the New Education Policy, 2020. The NEP 2020 is a welcome and ambitious reimagination of India's education system into a modern, progressive and equitable one. Successful execution of this policy calls for dramatic simplification of decision-making structures and re-prioritisation of budgetary resources in months and years to come.

Language controversy

NEP states that the medium of instruction for children of classes up to V will be in mother tongue/regional language. However, this NEP 2020 feature contradicts the Supreme Court judgement of June 5, 2014 which held that Article 19(1)(a) of the Constitution of India guarantees the fundamental right of parents to choose the medium of instruction in which their children study in school – "A child, and on his behalf his parent or guardian, has the right to choose the medium of instruction at the primary stage under Article 19(1)(a)".

The first big recalibration was on language. The focus has shifted from Hindi to English. The Centre replaced the contentious clause, doing away with the mention of Hindi vis-a-vis the three-language formula and a policy of "no language will be imposed on any state". The policy also states that Sanskrit will be "mainstreamed" with strong offerings in school and higher education. It will be included as one of the language options in the three-language formula at schools.

Sanskrit is not the language of science and technology. Then, there's a clause 4.17 of the NEP which dwells on the relevance, importance and beauty of Sanskrit. "Sanskrit will be offered at all levels of the school and higher education as an important, enriching option for students, including as an option in the three language formula." It can be argued that this is only a recommendation. But given how fervently the ruling class has been pushing for the use of Hindi and Sanskrit nationally, it gives rise to apprehensions. This has been objected by many states ruled by opposition parties.

Many in the state have expressed deep concern over some of the proposals made by the state government. The proposals are part of position papers for inputs sent to the Union Government to be included in the curriculum under NEP. It suggests incorporating mathematical concepts from ancient Bharat, while drawing a contrast to the mathematical concepts which have its origins in Europe. It also recommends introducing "certain sutras" of Vedic mathematics for "fast mental calculation".

The Pythagoras theorem is being questioned. We need to evolve and expand our horizons of knowledge, and we cannot insist that our students restrict their horizon to just India-based experts and expertise.

There is a persistent mismatch between the knowledge skills imparted and the jobs available. This has been one of the main challenges that has affected the Indian education system since Independence. NEP 2020 fails to check this, as it is silent on education related to emerging technological fields like artificial intelligence, cyberspace, nanotech, etc. Experiential learning has to be given more prominence and teachers need to imbibe creative thinking in students. The focus should be on core subjects through programmes like STEM education.

Innovative teaching should be introduced using new technologies. Preference should be given to conceptual understanding rather than rote learning. It should support feedback-oriented evaluation, making students understand where they are going wrong. Teachers can regularly evaluate students based on the learning outcomes.

RAIN HAVOC: K'TAKA TO SEEK CENTRAL AID

State hikes compensation to Rs 5 lakh for fully-damaged houses

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Hubballi

WITH the rain and floods playing havoc in parts of Karnataka, Chief Minister Basavraj Bommai on Saturday said the state will seek financial assistance from the Union government after getting detailed reports on the damages. Due to intermittent rains across the state, thousands of houses have collapsed or were partially damaged, farmers have suffered huge crop losses and some regions have been flooded. The government has taken up rescue and relief measures and has been distributing compensation for damaged houses.

On measures taken to tackle the situation, Bommai told reporters that compensation for damages to houses and loss of crops have been increased considerably. Up to Rs 5 lakh is being handed out for houses that have been damaged completely, he said and clarified that people whose houses were damaged due to rain in May will get the revised compensation.

Stating that a majority of houses that were damaged were in low-lying areas, the CM said the affected residents will given houses under various schemes. "The state is expected to get around 18 lakh houses under the Pradhan Mantri Awaas Yojana. When this comes through, priority will be given to compensate for damaged houses along with a matching grant from the state government," he said.

The government has instructed officials to respond quickly to flood situations. "As far as flooding in rivers in North Karnataka districts is concerned, the deputy commissioners of the respective districts have asked to be in touch with their counterparts in Maharashtra," Bommai said.

Bridge damaged, residents marooned

HOWEVER, the situation turned grim as the water released from Krishnaraja Sagar reservoir damaged the temporary bridge connecting the layout and pump house. This forced the residents to stay indoors and they had to struggle to buy essential commodities like milk, vegetables and food grains. Pasha uses his coracle to cross the river and deliver the essentials.

"When I heard that the bridge connecting the layout has collapsed and people were cut off from the mainland, I decided to help them using my coracle. I make eight to ten trips from the pump house to the layout to help schoolchildren and office goers reach their homes safely, free of cost. They wait for me and I have even ferried few of them suffering from fever to a nearby clinic", he added.

Pasha even refused to take money from some priests whom he ferried till a temple's hundi. "God has assigned me to serve people who are in trouble. I am doing it for mankind's good and not for any monetary gain".

Pasha, who tracks the weather forecast, feels that the situation will further worsen if more water is released from the reservoir. He has shared his mobile phone number to all the families stranded in the layout. Shankar, a resident said, "We are happy that our children have not missed classes, all because of Pasha", he said.

Terminate pregnancy of POCSO victim: Kerala HC

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Kochi

THE Kerala High Court has allowed the medical termination of pregnancy (MTP) of a 15-year-old rape survivor, who is 24 weeks pregnant. The court said that the neonate if born alive, should be provided the best treatment available under the circumstances so that it develops into a healthy child.

Justice V G Arun observed that the case projects the plight of a fifteen-year-old girl, a POCSO victim, who wants to terminate her pregnancy. The Medical Termination of Pregnancy Act, 1971 provides an outer limit of 24 weeks, beyond which termination is not allowed.

After examining the facts and circumstances of the case, the judge said, " I deem it appropriate to lean in favour of the minor girl, rather than sticking to the strict letter of the law." The medical board's report stated that the neonatologist opined that at this gestational age, the chance of neonatal survival in our hospital is about 30 per cent. If the baby survives, it will require admission to neonatal ICU. Morbidity is high and the baby may require two-three months of NICU care.

The court ordered that considering each day's delay will add to the victim's agony, the petitioner, who is the parent, is permitted to get the victim girl's pregnancy terminated at a government hospital. The superintendent of the hospital shall take immediate measures to constitute a medical team for conducting the procedure. The petitioner should file an appropriate undertaking, giving her consent that the surgery will be conducted at own risk.

Monkeypox: All primary contacts of patient isolated

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Kollam

WITH the health department identifying the driver of the taxi car in which the monkeypox patient from Kollam had travelled to Medical College, Thiruvananthapuram, all his primary contacts have been isolated. Drivers of two autorickshaws in which the 35-year old man travelled after arriving from the UAE last week were isolated earlier.

The first monkeypox patient in the state has been admitted to an isolated facility at the Government Medical College in Thiruvananthapuram. His condition is stable and he is recovering, said health officials. Parents of the patient who had closely interacted with him have also been admitted to the medical college for observation. They don't have any symptoms, said hospital authorities.

The district administration has identified 11 people who came into contact with the infected person since his return from the UAE on July 12. They include parents, drivers and a dermatologist who first examined him. ''We have issued guidelines to all of them and they are under observation'', said district medical officer Dr Bindu Mohan.

If anybody shows symptoms such as fever, redness on the body, itching and pimples over the body, they should immediately report to the nearest health centres, said the DMO. The authorities of NS Memorial Hospital where the infected person was treated first denied charges that they did not alert the administration about the suspected case. The hospital authorities said that the patient arrived at the hospital in his own vehicle and he decided to travel to the government medical college in the same vehicle. The hospital was ready to provide an ambulance but he rejected it.

IN a controversial move, the Rani Chennamma University (RCU) Belagavi has invited applications from "achievers" for honorary degrees to be conferred on achievers from different fields during the forthcoming 10th annual convocation of the varsity. Usually, eminent personalities from different fields are finalised for honoris causa by the Governor, also the chancellor of the university based on recommendation made by committees formed by universities.

Even as several educationists and leaders feel the process to choose 'achievers' for such honorary degrees by inviting applications as uncalled for and unfair, RCU Vice-chancellor M Ramachandra Gowda defended the move saying that, "The university invited applications with an intention to ensure that deserving personalities who have immensely contributed in various fields are identified and awarded. The names will be finalised by the Governor after the committee of experts submits the list of probables."

Prof Ramachandra Gowda said, "The university decided to invite applications for a fair choice of achievers and to avoid allegations of favouritism towards one section of people. The university will ensure that only deserving personalities get honorary degrees." The university is yet to finalise the date of 10th annual convocation which is expected to be attended by Governor Thawar Chand Gehlot.

Probe into suspension a sham: Diocese member

DONNA EVA @Bengaluru

THE suspension of two prominent Bengaluru school principals by the Karnataka Central Diocese has been inviting severe flak from various quarters in the city. The principals, S Edwin Christopher of Bishop Cotton Boys' School and Shanta Susheela of St John's High School, were suspended by the diocese for what it termed an "internal matter".

A senior member of the diocese, who requested not to be named, told The New Indian Express that the inquiry into the suspension of the two principals is a sham. "The reason given is that Christopher was not following the recommendations of the board on who to admit to the school. Further, Bishop Prasanna Kumar Samuel, who is the executive committee, had been very hesitant on his appointment in 2020. Meanwhile, charges against Susheela are that following the decision to waive fees for parents, the money had allegedly been deposited into her account," the member said. He also said that there had been some differences between the diocese and St John's Church, which the school is tied to.

The manner of the inquiry, the member said, is a sham. "If the inquiry is conducted, it will follow the rules that the bishop wants them to follow. They have suspended them and then conducted an inquiry, not the other way round. It has unnecessarily humiliated the principals and turned the issue into a major controversy, which the community is not happy about," the member added.

QUESTIONS FOR MPs FOR THIS MONSOON SESSION

THE THIRD EYE

SHANKKAR AIYAR
Author of The Gated Republic, Aadhaar: A Biometric History of India's 12 Digit Revolution, and Accidental India
shankkar.aiyar@gmail.com

IT is not the answer that enlightens but the question. This eloquent perspective was articulated by Romanian-French thinker and playwright Eugene Ionesco. Enlightenment though depends on whether the questions are asked.

This week will see the start of the Monsoon Session of Parliament. Theory has it that Members of Parliament draw the attention of the government to the concerns of those who elect them. In practice, the focus of MPs has been more on party politics and less on everyday issues haunting those who send them to Parliament. Increasingly, the parliamentary process which costs taxpayers crores of rupees has been reduced to an opportunity for raucous rhetoric.

Here are some critical issues the MPs may want to flag to get a picture of the state of governance.

Floods in Smart Cities: The monsoon has brought in its wake predictable images. State after state is reporting floods inundating towns and cities – remarkably, many of the cities are on the list of Smart Cities. Pune apparently could not handle rains of more than 50 mm. Frequent failures are buried under the alibi of climate change and that useful phrase, 'unprecedented'. The saga of the 'smart cities' programme deserves a doctoral study. For now, MPs may want to ask how much money has been spent on the initiative, If at all the smart city programme funds scenario modelling and suggest a study of cities to map vulnerability – from droughts to floods, to scarcity and excess!

Out of School Students: The pandemic dealt a body blow to lives, livelihoods and the education of children. Over 1.5 million schools with over 247 million students were hit as schools were shut for over 18 months. As per ASER 2021 4.6 per cent of students in the age group of 6 to 14 were found to be out of school. It is true education is a state subject but the implications of children being left out of school are national. Ideally, UDISE should have answers but even in the age of digital governance, its latest report is for 2020-21.

MPs must seek data and assessments of programmes announced. How many children are out of school? What is the level of teacher vacancies? What about access to devices and the internet for online support? Any evaluation of improvement requires a baseline.

Vacant Posts and Joblessness: This column has earlier highlighted the curious paradox of joblessness and vacant jobs (https//bit.ly/36Jobs). The Modi Government recently announced a big push to fill vacant posts in government – targeting the filling of a million posts in 18 months. The idea is welcome but what about vacant posts in the states? While the number of vacant posts at the Centre is known – over 8.5 lakh posts – the data on posts in states is a known unknown. MPs must seek data on vacant posts across levels in the states – in secretariat, in state PSEs, in urban bodies, zilla parishads and tier-III institutions – and create the momentum for them to be filled. Why are MPs giving state governments a free pass?

Understanding Unemployment: The confluence of consequences of events has compounded an already confusing landscape. India has always struggled to present a coherent picture of employment – and this is a country which pioneered data collection and analysis in the 1950s. The periodic labour force survey presents more questions than answers.

There is data – on man-hours of jobs created by government spending, recruitments/retrenchments by private enterprises, EPFO registrations, enrollment on the e-Shram platform, and MGNREGS record payroll payments. What is missing is intelligible collation. Surely assimilation through filters can deliver a partial even if not a complete picture. MPs must campaign for a credible quarterly report on employment.

Access of credit to MSMEs: Micro, Small and Medium Enterprises form the backbone of the economy– in employment, in output and in exports. However, their ability to access credit is limited by systemic bias. An August 2021 report of the Standing Committee on Labour suggests eight of ten MSMEs lack access to institutional credit.

It is true that through the pandemic, MSMEs were supported with schemes for restructuring loans. It is equally true that those without access to bank credit suffered and have shut down. It would be instructive for MPs to seek a white paper on the landscape of credit to MSMEs. To start with it can seek answers on how many registered MSMEs have access to formal institutional credit. This then can be widened to include micro-enterprises across sectors.

These are but only a few of the issues which MPs can flag. There are plenty of other issues. For instance, what is the state of the idea to incubate new cities, how many states have adopted the new labour code, how many metro projects across cities are on schedule, are banks lending to farmers for solar farms? And there are many more.

Parliament sessions are meant to be the staging arena for debate and deliberation on the state of the nation. Hopefully, and it is only a hope, the monsoon session will not be drowned in competitive cacophony and the elected will find the time to represent the electors.

CASSANDRAS are turning out to be right when it comes to India. India is finally going to become the World's most populous nation in less than 12 months. As India adds around 3700 persons every hour to its population, it will cross the colossal figure of 1500 million by 2030. Even at the highest current rate of economic growth over 500 million would be still living below the poverty line. Even after acquiring the top notches in technology development, most Indians may not get an uninterrupted electricity supply and enough drinking water. Gains from growth would be lost in the pains of a burgeoning number of people fighting for the same space and natural resources. Almost every fifth human being in the World lives in India with just less than seven per cent of the global GDP.

It is in the background of impending economic and social catastrophe that the demands for initiating stringent measures to contain population explosion have started again. Earlier, it was during the emergency, family became the central theme for policy making. Sanjay Gandhi applied both coercive and persuasive tactics to tame and contain the numbers. He failed because of the excessive use of force and violent protests against his move by the minorities. The Congress and both Indira and Sanjay lost the elections in North India. For the next four decades, none of the political parties even dared talk about population control. They have even changed the name of the Union Ministry of Family Planning to Family Welfare.

But the horrifying prospects of India beating China, if not in Olympic medals, in population, have woken the Indian establishment, intellectuals, policy makers and even political leaders to discuss and debate the means and methods of dealing with the Cassandra Complex. The narrative and discourse are, expectedly, along ideological lines. While the Sangh Parivar and its affiliates are pushing the government to bring in legislation which would make it compulsory for each family to have only two children, Ham Do, Hamare do is the new prescription to deal with the rising numbers of human beings. Recently, Rakesh Sinha, an RSS ideologue and a nominated member of the ruling BJP, moved a Private Member's Bill in the house demanding a two child policy. Without naming any religion or a community, Sinha hinted at certain sections grabbing prosperity at the cost of others.

Subsequently, many others from his party spoke about the urgent need for population control. But the intent and tone of all of them appeared as if they were camouflaging their real intention of singling out the Muslims for the nation's current population avalanche. In fact India's repeated attempts to tackle its population have been sabotaged by converting the issue into Hindus vs. Muslims. Even now, not only the politicians but the media have dealt with it along communal lines. If the BJP leaders are invited to support two child norms, Asaduddin Owaisi, a lone Rajya Sabha member of his party that too from Telangana takes the centre stage as the sole representative of his community. When the two extremes are on the same platform, it becomes an issue of majority versus the minority and not Backwardness vs. Progress. The majoritarian view is backed by what they claim as the disproportionate rise in the Muslim population in certain parts of the country. The Sangh Parivar claims that since 1951, while the absolute number of Hindus has risen a little over three times, that of Muslims shot up by more than six times. Even a study done by the Pew Research Centre (PRC) pointed out that while the population of Hindus and other religious groups multiplied by three times during 1951-2011, the Muslim population rose five times. And it is the Muslim community which is poorer in terms of education and wealth as compared to others. Muslims on the other hand claim that even the total fertility rate (TFR) in the case of Muslim women has drastically plummeted from 4.4 children in 1992 to around 2.6 last year. However, it is still much higher than the TFR of 2.1 for Hindus and others. Moreover, Muslims have grown at a very high rate in certain north and north eastern states converting many districts from Hindu to majority ones. The concentration of Muslims is partially due to sociological reasons. And more than half of 20 crore Muslims live in just six states of Uttar Pradesh, Kerala, West Bengal, Assam, J&K, and Bihar. Barring Kerala, other states have registered higher population growth than the rest of India. And these are the states that have performed relatively poorer on the economic front.

But in India, economics doesn't decide the fate of the ordinary people. Faith and Fraternity do. According to the United Nations Development Program (UNDP), India ranks 131 in Human Development Index (HDI) despite a record GDP growth rate. Its HDI of 0.645 is less than that of countries like Sri Lanka, Bhutan, Malaysia and Mauritius, etc. According to UNDP, India ranks 120 among 122 countries in the water quality index and 133 out of 180 nations for its water availability. For calculating HDI, the UNDP takes into consideration life expectancy, educational infrastructure, and per capita income. Ironically, even when India celebrates Seventy Five years of its Independence, it is still indulging in identity politics and community entitlements. Each and every legislative exercise, judicial verdict, or even selection of candidates is seen with coloured glasses. The high table of the Indian thought process has been grabbed by those elements who think in terms of communal and community silos. For some of them, a billion mobile phones and an equal number of internet users are strong indicators of India's inclusive identity.

It is unrestricted growth of population which has pulled the country down. While a majority of the Nations have now reached almost zero or negative growth of population, Indians are still struggling to retain the biological and demographic imbalances intact. The fault lies with the leadership as they are the ones who stand to lose if the poor narrow the gap between the rich by minimising their numbers. Unfortunately, Muslims suffer from the lack of progressive leaders who can think of welfare than warfare. They are being driven to follow the Pak or Afghan model and not that of Malaysia and Indonesia. However, Prime Minister Narendra Modi has realised the importance of economics in tackling the population menace amongst Muslims. In his recent speech, he told the BJP workers to reach out to Pasmanda Muslims who comprise over 90 per cent of the Muslim community. His idea is to make them stake holders in the India Growth story. But for the suspicious community, his outreach is too late. India is yet to get out of the game of numbers. Restricting numbers would bring much more prosperity to the Muslims than to the Hindus. Just taking pawn politics out of the population policy is the best way forward for an Atmanirbhar Bharat.

A BLOCKBUSTER LEGEND

A COUNTRY OF MANY GODS

DR. JAYARAM PODUVAL
Head, Department of Art History & Aesthetics, Faculty of Fine Arts, The Maharaja Sayajirao University of Baroda, Gujarat

A helpless mother chased by villains runs away with her three children and hides them in various localities of Mumbai. Later the children were picked up by Abdul Chacha, Father Braganza and Police Inspector Bakshi. Indeed, an ideal opening sequence for an exciting blockbuster of 1970s Bollywood. Not so much exciting for a Keralite who has heard the story of Parayi Petta Panthirukulam, the legend describing the miraculous deeds of twelve legendary characters born out of the marriage between anupper caste scholar and a lower caste girl.

The legend narrates the story of Vararuchi, a Brahmin and a scholar of repute in the court of Raja Bhoja, getting married to a Paraya (pariah- outcast) girl because it was written in his fate. After their "profane" wedded relations, Vararuchi decides to leave the service of the king and goes on a pilgrimage with his wife. In this journey they happened to travel through Kerala, says the legend. Through these travels Vararuchi's wife, the Parayi, gave birth to twelve children and hence the name of the legend, Parayi Petta Panthirukulam (twelve castes/clans born of Parayi).

Vararuchi, who is now an ardent follower of fatalism, instructs his wife to abandon the children saying since God gave them a mouth, destiny would provide them sustenance. The abandoned children were later picked up by people of various castes including Brahmins and Parayas. For instance, a Brahmin adopted the eldest son, Agnihotri. An Ilayatu adopted Naranathu Bhranthan and Perunthacchan by a carpenter. A Paraya looked after Pakkanar and a Muslim took care of Uppukoottan. Just like the the 1970s blockbuster.

The legend is all about their divine actions, often challenging established social norms. The legend underscores that caste is not determined by birth but by upbringing. The mother born in a lower caste becomes a Brahmin through her upbringing and her children born to a Brahmin and Parayi by birth adopt different castes through the people who brought them up.

Most castes that existed in medieval Kerala are represented in the legend. The legend does not deal with the establishment and institutionalisation of the caste system but on the existence of caste and related hierarchy in Kerala. Retold by Kottaratthil Sankunni in his magnum opus, Eithihyamaala (1909), this legend cannot be considered as a story to propagate the caste hierarchy that existed in Kerala. On the contrary, lower caste representations like Pakkanar (Paraya) and Perumthacchan (carpenter) never miss an opportunity to take a dig at the social structure. In the legend, Pakkanar stakes his claim to the golden calf because it is an inanimate object and thus dead, so it belongs to the lower caste Parayas and not Brahmins. The story of Akavoor Chattan, one of Parayi's sons, expounds that even a lower caste person could get to see the 'parabrahma', the eternal soul, through great devotion.

The characters of this legend are quite popular in Kerala and they are said to have lived in an area covering Malappuram district in north Kerala to

Vararuchi, who is now an ardent follower of fatalism, instructs his wife to abandon the children saying since God gave them a mouth, destiny would provide them sustenance

Kollam district in the south. Melattur Agnihotri, the eldest son of the Parayi was a Brahmin from Malappuram district and the legends of Naranattu Bhranthan (The Madman of Naranattu) are popular in the South Malabar region. There are many temples in Central Kerala presumably built by Perumthacchan. Akavoor Chattan is said to have attained salvation at Ochira in Kollam district in South Kerala. Elamkulam Kunhan Pilla, one of the key scholars of Kerala history, observes that wood carvers of central Kerala worship Perumthacchan.

Kesari Balakrishna Pillai in his collection of articles on Kerala history, dedicated an entire chapter to analysing the legend. He argues that the legend is a rhetoric interpretation of the philosophical school of Kumarilabhatta and his disciples. Vararuchi of Parayi Petta Pantirukulam, according to Kesari, is none other than Kumarilabhatta (c.610 – 682 CE) who was born in Tirumalpuram, Tamil Nadu. Kesari also identifies certain scholars among the 12 children of Vararuchi like Melattur Agnihotri as Mandana Mishra (author of Sphota Siddhi and Bhavana Vivekam) and Naranattu Bhranthan as Haridatta, the author of many astrological treatises. Kesari also suggests that Thomas Knai who led the migration of Christians from Central Asia to Kerala was Perumthacchan and Vayilla Kunnilappan was a Hindu Sastri named Bhattanarayana who was brought to Kerala by Brahmins to debate with Buddhist philosophers.

To Kesari, the legend of Parayi Petta Pantirukulam is a rhetorical illustration of the nyaya and mimamsa scholars, who operated in Kerala prior to Shankaracharya. However, he maintains silence on why these philosophers had to be masqueraded as the abandoned children of a pariah woman. Even if the legend is all about the Kumarilabhatta school of thought as Kesari argues, it clearly critiques the caste hierarchy existed in Kerala, at times interrogating it. Those questions remain relevant even in present times. Thus, the popularity of the story.

'New' Hindu

This is with reference to the article 'Coming to terms with the "new" Hindu' (July 15). I congratulate the writer for the excellent piece. If we are to become a part of "new" Hindu we must wake up to the communal situation prevailing in India and stand united against the communal forces represented by the so-called 'secular' parties! They have nothing but contempt and hatred for Hindus and Hinduism! They expect all Hindus to respect other faiths – which is quite right – but they do not want the Hindus and Hinduism to be respected by the others! Their double standards are quite obvious. They all ask Nupur Sharma to apologize for hurting the Muslim sentiments but do they want the others to apologize when they hurt the Hindu faith? Such people get away even when they insult Hindu gods and goddesses! Then they defend it by the principle of 'freedom of speech and expression'! The same is not available for Hindus in their way of thinking. Hindus have one weapon -that is their democratic right of a vote! If Hindus reject these people in any election they would come to their senses!

UCC needed

Yours is an apt article 'Coming to terms with the "new" Hindu' (July 15). The absence of a Uniform Civil Code is the main reason why there are communal tensions in the country. It must be implemented. The appeasement of minorities in India cannot be at the expense of the majority Hindu community as well. The balance of equality must prevail. Unfortunately, external extremist forces especially from the Muslim world, Pakistan in particular, are aiding and abetting communal agendas in the country with their paid agents. Funding Haj pilgrimages, madrasas, etc., is an aberration in a so-called secular nation. Vote-bank politics in the country is thankfully in disgrace and decline, but caste-based electoral politics has increased sadly. A spirit of true nationalism must prevail across the length and breadth of the country especially in our 75th year of independence.

Correct decision

This is with reference to the news item 'Form panel to prepare Agamic temples' (July 16). The Madras High Court's directive to Tamil Nadu government to take stock of Agamic temples and find ways and means to appoint archakas well-versed in relevant Agamic practices in temples which follow the relevant Agama practices is the right step. A political hue and cry over this has little meaning. De facto all religious heads strive hard to bring peace to mankind and treat all mankind as one family. So, such a row over the appointment of archakas in Agamic temples contrary to the relevant Agama practiced in particular Hindu temples will create animosity among various religious-minded souls instead of religious amity.

Top univ rankings

This is with reference to 4 years in row, IIT-M retains top spot in institutional ranking (July 16). Our IITs, IIMs, IISc, few top-notch universities and colleges are our national pride whose alumni hold top positions in universities, research institutes, and corporate companies in India and abroad. However, the present list becomes infructuous as it is almost a mirror image of the list put forward for in the last several years, with minor flip flops.

This is with reference to the news 'Fratricide: 2 Army men killed, 2 hurt' (July 16). It is shocking to hear again that an army camp at Surankote in the border district of Poonch in J&K has lost 2 of its soldiers in a shootout within the unit. Similarly the BSF camp in Amritsar also witnessed loosing 5 lives in March apart from 2 deaths as a result of fratricide reported in January this year.

India to roll out first cervical cancer vaccine by year-end

KAVITA BAJELI-DATT @New Delhi

THE Centre plans to roll out India's first Quadrivalent Human Papillomavirus vaccine (qHPV), manufactured by Serum Institute of India (SII), against cervical cancer as part of the national immunisation programme by this year-end.

"The vaccine will probably be rolled out in the third or fourth quarter of this year. We will introduce it in the immunisation programme," said Dr N K Arora, head of the Covid-19 Working Group of the National Technical Advisory Group on Immunisation (NTAGI). "It will be introduced for children as part of a routine immunisation programme," he added.

The Drug Controller General of India (DGCI), which had allowed the company to start manufacturing the vaccine on July 6, recommended market authorisation to SII on July 12. The drug controller based its approval following a recommendation by the Subject Expert Committee (SEC) on Covid-19 on June 15.

Before the DCGI approval, the NTAGI on June 29 had given its nod to the vaccine after going through the data. The recommendation came after a HPV working group of NTAGI had on June 8 reviewed the clinical trial data. Cervical cancer kills one woman in every eight minutes in India, with the country accounting for about a fifth of the global burden and 1.23 lakh cases and around 67,000 deaths per year, according to the World Health Organization's International Agency for Research on Cancer (IARC-WHO). The vaccine, Cervavac, is based on VLP (virus-like particles), similar to the Hepatitis B vaccine, and protects by generating antibodies against the HPV virus L1 protein.

The trials for the vaccine started in 2019 and thousands of participants in the age-group of 9 26 years were part of the trials across India. Phase III results showed a robust immune response in 100 per cent of the vaccine recipients with good safety records. Human papillomavirus (HPV) infection is now a well established cause of cervical cancer. HPV types 16 and 18 are most common and are responsible for about 70 per cent of all cervical cancer cases worldwide. The vaccine is said to be effective against four strains of the virus — Type 6, Type 11, Type 16 and Type 18.

Dr Manas Chakrabarti, consultant Onco-Gynaecologist, Manipal Hospital, Salt Lake, Kolkata, said national HPV vaccination is one of the single most important developments in Indian medical history and a milestone in preventing cervical cancer. A national vaccination drive will benefit a large section of women, he added. Currently, two vaccines licensed globally are available in India - a quadrivalent vaccine, Gardasil, from Merck, and a bivalent vaccine, Cervarix, from GlaxoSmithKline. However, both are costly, he added.

Describing indigenously-developed first qHPV against cervical cancer as "much awaited", Dr Mahua Bhattacharya, Consultant Gynaecologist, Fortis Kolkata, said it would "be highly accepted considering the population profile and infection burden of India. This will surely significantly reduce morbidity and mortality associated with cervical cancer."

Cervical cancer is preventable if it is detected early and managed properly, she added. Though HPV vaccination has been licensed for use in India since 2008, it is yet to be included in the national immunisation programme, according to officials.

Fight against disease

THE DISEASE
India accounts for a fifth of global cervical cancer cases with 1.23 lakh cases and around 67,000 deaths every year, according to WHO's International Agency for Research on Cancer.

'Take jab rate to pre-Covid time'

NEW DELHI: The World Health Organisation on Saturday called for more significant steps in the South-East Asia Region to revive regular immunisation rates to pre-Covid times, stressing that despite concerted efforts by countries, challenges and gaps persist. Highlighting India's routine immunisation, the WHO said that decline was witnessed in 2020. However, it added that in 2021, India provided close to 2 billion doses of Covid-19 and other childhood vaccines taken together, over five times more vaccines administered in the country during the year than in 2020. Dr Poonam Khetrapal Singh, Regional Director WHO S-E Asia, commended the region for administering a billion doses since January 2021. "As we focus on further scaling up Covid-19 vaccination coverage, we must also do all we can to ensure no child is deprived of life-saving vaccines offered under routine immunisation services," she added.

Oppn parties skip Speaker's meet, thunders likely in monsoon session

RICHA SHARMA @New Delhi

STAGE is set for a tumultuous monsoon session starting Monday with several Opposition parties skipping a meeting of floor leaders called on Saturday by Lok Sabha Speaker Om Birla. The meeting aimed to discuss key issues to be taken up during the session and seek cooperation or smooth functioning of the House.

Leaders from Congress, DMK, YSRCP were in attendance while those skipping the meet in the Parliament House included TMC, TRS, Left parties, Shiv Sena, BJD, TDP, JMM, and national conference. Some of the parties said that they are unlikely to attend the meeting called by Rajya Sabha Chairman Venkaiah Naidu Sunday. The government will also hold an all party meeting Sunday.

The Opposition and government has already been at loggerheads over a new list of "unparliamentary" words released by the Lok Sabha secretariat. Words like 'jumlajeevi', 'baal buddhi', 'Covid spreader', 'Snoopgate' and even commonly used words like 'ashamed', 'abused, 'betrayed', 'corrupt', 'drama', 'hypocrisy' and 'incompetent' have been listed as unparliametary. The Opposition also protested against a circular saying that dharna, protests and religious activities are not allowed in the parliament compound. However, the Centre said that the order has been in place for several years and the Opposition is making an issue out of nothing. After the meeting, Birla said that he appealed to all party leaders to hold discussions on key issues currently facing the country. The discussion was held on allocation of time for the government's legislative business and discussion on other issues.

The government has listed 24 bills for passing during the session that ends on August 12. The first day of the monsoon session will see voting for the presidential election and vice-presidential election voting next month.

The Opposition during the meeting sought discussion on recently launched Agnipath scheme, unemployment, China's intrusion in the Indian territory in Ladakh, inflation and agrarian crisis among others.

Congress MP Adhir Ranjan Chowdhury said that the opposition sought that sufficient time should be given to the Opposition in the House to raise issues.They also raised the issue of list of "unparliamentary" words released by the secretariat.

Naidu will be meeting floor leaders of all parties in the upper house Sunday while an all party meeting has been called by the government to discuss the business during the session and seek cooperation from the other parties.

Leader of Opposition in Rajya Sabha Mallikarjun Kharge has also called for a meeting of all like-minded parties to discuss the strategy for the monsoon session and joint vice-presidential candidate.

> I urge all parties to cooperate in the smooth conduct of the proceedings with decency, dignity and discipline in accordance with the high traditions and values of the House —Om Prakash Birla, Speaker

Auditing & self-assessment of pollution control on cards

RICHA SHARMA @New Delhi

THE government is looking to introduce a self-assessment regime for submitting annual compliance reports for pollution monitoring, along the lines of the self-assessment of income tax under Form 16. The idea is to cut down on corruption and to simplify the license renewal procedure for the industry which otherwise is at the mercy of the state pollution control boards. Plans are afoot to have environment auditors similar to water auditors and energy auditors in the Central Ground Water Board and Bureau of Energy Efficiency respectively.

The National Productivity Council is already designing a scheme so that environment auditors certified by the Quality Control of India (QCI) can do an independent annual environment audit for industry seeking renewal of licenses and No-objection certificates to operate. As of now, all these activities are done by State Pollution Control Boards and the government is looking to cut down on red-tapism and corruption in the area.

"The idea is to bring in reforms so that the industry does not have to run from one office to another seeking approvals for a project. It is like one window clearance for everything. More such measures are being planned in the coming months," said a senior ministry official, adding a self-assessment will also cut down delays that happen at the level of state authorities.

The industry bodies have been regularly holding meetings with the ministry officials to streamline procedures and cut down on delays caused due to long procedures, especially at the state level. According to the Confederation of Indian Industry (CII), the government has shown commitment to synchronising the ease of doing business and normalization of conformities without compromising environmental conditions.

An analysis by the CII environment division shows the union environment ministry has streamlined more than 25,000 compliance conditions to support ease of living and ease of doing business. It further says the average time for granting environment clearance has reduced significantly from more than 150 days in 2019 to less than 90 days and in some sectors, even within 60 days. The recent amendments to decriminalise violations under the five environment laws dealing with air, water, forest, public liability in case of disaster, and environmental protection is a move to ensure that industry is not treated like a criminal for violations and to end the fear of being imprisoned for small violations.

'MEASURE TO CUT DOWN CORRUPTION'
Along the lines of the self-assessment of I-T under Form 16, the idea is to cut down on corruption and simplify the license renewal procedure for the industry which otherwise depends on pollution boards

SECURITY AT RISK

WhatsApp malware targeting Army personnel detected

MAYANK SINGH @New Delhi

INDIAN defence persons are on target of enemy intelligence agencies and the messaging application WhatsApp is being used often. After the detection of a similar breach in April this year another case has been detected where a malware is being circulated using WhatsApp.

Intelligence agencies have detected a malicious malware file 'CSO_SO on Deputation DRDO.apk' said to have originated from a suspicious WhatsApp No that is being forwarded on WhatsApp to target Indian Defence Persons.

As per the sources, the .APK file is a decoy copy of a genuine DRDO (Defence Research and Development Organisation) letter issued on 26 May 2022 on the same subject i.e., calling for application for deputations to DRDO. "Pakistan has used an innovative social engagement theme and explosive vulnerability in the cyber domain to target defence persons through click-bait method to steal their digital credentials and elicit sensitive info," said the sources.

The infected devices were analysed by the agencies and the findings indicate that "on clicking the malicious file it compromises the digital artefacts and connection with servers based in Nuremberg, Bavaria, Germany".

The DRDO had announced deputations for defence persons to DRDO as Chief Security Officer, dated May 26, 2022. The text message purportedly written by Rajan Kumar, UDC, urges the recipients to forward the .APK file to all the eligible defence officers so that they can apply for the said deputation.

This paper had reported earlier that the Army has instructed all officers to stay off any social media groups floated by civilians, or people whose identity cannot be verified. The aim of the policy is to secure not just information but personnel too, said another source.

Indigenously-built Dunagiri adds stealth to Navy's powers

New Delhi : Continuing with India's push towards indigenous production of military equipment and systems, Defence Minister Rajnath Singh launched Dunagiri (Yard- 3023), Project 17A frigate built by Garden Reach Shipbuilders Limited (GRSE) in Kolkata on Friday. While the construction of the surface ships is going fine, the Indian Navy faces delays in its submarine construction programme. P17A frigates are a follow-on class of the P17 (Shivalik Class) frigates with improved stealth features, advanced weapons and sensors and platform management systems. Seven P17A frigates are under various stages of construction at Mazagaon Dock Limited and GRSE which will have multidimensional capabilities to destroy enemies from sea, sky, and underwater. Speaking on the occasion, Singh stressed on the need to increase our infrastructure and assets in the changing scenario of the world, as "economic, political and trade relations between countries are constantly evolving. Security challenges in the Indian Ocean region and Indo-Pacific are constantly increasing". Dunagiri, named after a mountain range in Uttarakhand, is the fourth ship of Project 17A frigates. ENS

PM Narendra Modi waves as he arrives to inaugurate the Bundelkhand E-way | PTI

PM targets freebie culture with 'revadi' jibe in UP

PM targets Opposition while inaugurating Bundelkhand Expressway

NAMITA BAJPAI @ Lucknow

PRIME Minister Narendra Modi on Saturday denounced the freebie culture, calling it detrimental to the country's interest. Urging people to banish its proponents from the political arena, the PM said, "The 'revadi' (freebie) culture is dangerous for the development of the country. The followers of 'revadi culture' will never build expressways, airports and defence corridors".

He was speaking after inaugurating the Bundelkhand Expressway in Uttar Pradesh's Jalaun. The 296-km long Expressway was built at a cost of ₹14,716 crore and was completed in 28 months. "People, especially, the youth have to be cautious of such designs as this culture lures the youngsters by freebies and pushes their future into darkness. Together, we have to remove this freebie culture from country's politics," Modi further said.

Crediting the BJP's double engine government for the state's development, PM Modi said neither the governments of BJP-ruled states nor the Centre has ever resorted to distributing freebies to win elections. "We believe in working hard to improve the future," he said.

Modi dedicated the expressway to the "glorious legacy and pride of Bundelkhand, "a land of warriors and patriots". It will bring prosperity to seven districts – Chitrakoot, Hamirpur, Auraiyya, Jalaun, Mahoba, Banda and Etawah, he said.

The PM's 'revadi' jibe invited a retort from Delhi Chief Minister Arvind Kejriwal, who has faced flak for announcing such freebies in all the states where his Aam Aadmi Party has contested elections or is planning to. Free water, electricity or healthcare and world-class primary education are not 'revadis' but the responsibility of the State, he said.

"Despite making so many things free, Delhi has a budget surplus. What's wrong in ending corruption and using the money to help the public?" the AAP national convener said.

NIA, ED to step in for Bihar terror module investigation

RAMASHANKAR @ Patna

TWO Central agencies — the NIA and the Enforcement Directorate — are set to help the Bihar Police in investigating the Phulwarisharif terror module. The police claim to have traced the links of arrested suspects, apparently associated with the Popular Front of India, to Pakistan, Bangladesh and Yemen.

The police have not ruled out the possibility of terror funding. The police investigation has revealed the PFI was spreading its network in Bihar and had been involved in planning anti-India conspiracy for four years. The outfit is banned in the neighbouring Jharkhand state.

On Saturday, a joint team of the National Investigation Agency (NIA), the Bihar Anti-Terrorist Squad and the district police detained a suspect from Lucknow in neighbouring Uttar Pradesh. The suspect provided legal support to PFI activists in securing bail from courts in terror-related cases across the country.

According to the police, the PFI was training youths in arms and brainwashing them so that they could spread communal hatred and indulge in violence. It has emerged that the Kerala unit of the PFI funded its Jharkhand counterpart. The outfit is now allegedly funding PFI activities in Bihar, UP, West Bengal and Kerala.

Preliminary probe suggested that PFI's Jharkhand unit was getting hefty money from illegal mining. "We are looking into every aspect of the case lodged with Phulwari police station in Patna," said Patna Senior Superintendent of Police Manavjeet Singh Dhillon.

The Patna police busted the terror module and arrested three persons, including a retired Jharkhand police officer Mohammad Jalauddin, who is allegedly linked to PFI. They planned to make India an "Islamic nation" by 2047 when the country will celebrate the centenary of Independence.

Intelligence Bureau and Patna police are also interrogating a member of a sleeper cell, 'Magroob Ahmad Danish,' who is linked to the terror organisation 'Ghazva-e-Hind.'.

Danish allegedly had links with Pakistan-based radical outfit Tehreeq-e-Labbaik. Heh is stated to be the administrator of a WhatsApp group 'Ghazwa-e-Hind', through which he propagated an anti-India agenda. A Pakistani national, Faizan, had created the group.

Tracking funding route

According to the police, the PFI was training youths in arms and brainwashing them so that they could spread communal hatred and indulge in violence. It has emerged that the Kerala unit of the PFI funded its Jharkhand counterpart. The outfit is now allegedly funding PFI activities in Bihar, UP, West Bengal and Kerala

Several accused came from Kerala

As many as 26 people are named as accused in the FIR, which says that a dozen of them are from Kerala. They visited Patna to train youths in arms and incite others to spread communal violence

Contestants vs guarantor MLAs

Counting of votes for the mayoral polls to 16 corporations, to be held on Sunday and Wednesday, will decide the electoral fate of the three contesting Congress MLAs, besides the political fate of six guarantor BJP MLAs. While the Congress' Sanjay Shukla (Indore), Siddharth Kushwah (Satna) and Mahesh Parmar (Ujjain) were themselves in fray, BJP's candidates in five cities were finalised on the guarantee of six MLAs. Vishvas Sarang and Rameshwar Sharma, Rajendra Shukla, and Bhupendra Singh had recommended candidates from Bhopal, Rewa and Sagar, respectively. Candidates in Katni and Singrauli too were decided on guarantee from wealthy local MLAs.

Voters' thumbs down to netas' kin

In the recent panchayat polls, voters seem to have rejected dynastic politics. Most candidates, who are kin of the ruling BJP or Opposition Congress, have lost. The list of such candidates includes Rahul Gautam, the son of Vidhan Sabha speaker Girish Gautam, Cabinet minister Vijay Shah's sister Ranu Shah, and BJP Lok Sabha member G S Damor's brother. Congress MLAs' kin too haven't been able to win the voters' confidence in janpad and panchayat polls. This list includes ex-Union minister Kantilal Bhuria, Gyarsilal Rawat (whose wife and son lost) and Walsingh Meda. Among the independents, while Surendra Singh 'Shera Bhaiya' has failed to get his kin elected, another legislator Kedar Dabar has succeeded in getting his wife re-elected in the district panchayat polls.

After Pink City, entry of Sun City in MP politics

First it was Jaipur, where the then ruling Congress in 2020 had shifted its legislators to save them from BJP's 'Operation Lotus'. But the Kamal Nath government couldn't be saved. Twenty eight months later, it's Jodhpur, that is being seen as safe place for Congress-backed candidate Shital Dangi – to keep her prospects of winning Rajgarh district panchayat chairperson polls alive. Her husband Raj Dangi has opted for Jodhpur to keep his flock of 10 Congress-supported newly-elected district panchayat members away from BJP-supported chairperson's post claimant.

AAP to contest Assembly polls with local CM face in Rajasthan

RAJESH ASNANI @ Jaipur

ELECTIONS in Rajasthan may still be a year away, but the Aam Aadmi Party (AAP) has announced its entry into the fray with a "local face" as its chief ministerial candidate.

The AAP has been engaged in election preparations for Rajasthan ever since forming its government in Punjab. The Arvind Kejriwal-led party asserts that it will flaunt the party's development works in Delhi and Punjab. AAP currently has no presence in the Rajasthan Assembly.

The Opposition BJP and the ruling Congress are likely to go into the election battle without projecting their chief ministerial candidates. To avoid internal tussle, the BJP has announced that it will contest the elections under the leadership of Prime Minister Narendra Modi.

AAP has said it will field its candidates in all the 200 Assembly seats. Sandeep Pathak, Rajya Sabha MP and a strategist for the party in Punjab elections, shared the party's strategy with the media in Jaipur.

Pathak said AAP's chief minister's face for Rajasthan would be from the state itself. "This time in Rajasthan, we will contest 200 assembly seats with full force. Only those workers who are present will be given the tickets. We already have Arvind Kejriwal at the national level. A local face will be brought in Rajasthan soon," Pathak said.

Pathak said on the lines of Punjab, the party would conduct a survey in Rajasthan. "Leaders who will have good chances of winning and have a good image will be made candidates. The popular mood in Rajasthan will be known through the survey, which will also reveal what people want," he said. "There is no real change in the state when a Congress or BJP government comes to power. Due to their hidden alliance, both the parties ignore the issues affecting the ordinary people. This kho-kho game is going on between the two parties," Pathak remarked.

The party has also launched its membership drive through missed calls. To build the organization from village upwards, it has launched a 'Gram Sampark Abhiyan' and intensified interactions with villagers.

AAP TO CONTEST IN ALL 200 SEATS

AAP has said it will field its candidates in all the 200 Assembly seats. Sandeep Pathak, Rajya Sabha MP and a strategist for the party in Punjab elections, said AAP's chief minister's face for Rajasthan would be from the state itself. "This time in Rajasthan, we will contest 200 assembly seats with full force. Only those workers who are present will be given the tickets. A local face will be brought in Rajasthan soon," Pathak said.

TS Singh Deo resigns as Panchayat Minister

EJAZ KAISER @ Raipur

SENIOR Chhattisgarh Cabinet minister TS Singh Deo on Staurday resigned from the key department of Panchayat and Rural Development, though he will continue to hold the portfolios of Health and Family Welfare, Medical Education, Twenty Point Implementation and Commercial Tax (GST) departments.

Citing the reason for his decision, Singh Deo said that under him as the panchayat and rural development minister, the department could not provide a single house to the homeless people of the state.

In his letter addressed to Chief Minister Bhupesh Baghel, Singh Deo said that around 8 lakh houses were to be constructed under the Pradhan Mantri Awas Yojana (PMAY) but it could not happen owing to lack of released funds.

"I have discussed the issue several times with you with the repeated request to release the funds. But it couldn't be done owing to which the houses of around 8 lakh people were not built," Singh Deo, who represents the Ambikapur assembly constituency in the Surguja region, said in his letter to Baghel. "In our manifesto we had declared the right of rural housing as among the 36 key targets in Chhattisgarh to be achieved," he added.

The leader regretted that the "present government of Chhattisgarh couldn't build a single house for the homeless and the progress is zero". He further stated that he was deprived of the right as the minister to recommend the works for approval under the discretionary schemes of the department.

The decision of Singh Deo, who is seen as a political rival of CM Bhupesh Baghel in the state Congress, has once again sparked talks of their fallout.

Charges motivate, says Cong

TERMING the charges 'motivated' and 'manufactured lies', the Congress targeted Modi calling him a 'political vendetta machine' that does not spare even the dead.

"This is part of Modi's strategy to absolve himself of any responsibility for the communal carnage. It was his unwillingness and incapacity to control this carnage that had led the then PM Vajpayee to remind the CM of his 'rajdharma'," said Congress general secretary Jairam Ramesh. The BJP hit out at the Congress, alleging party chief Sonia Gandhi was the mastermind behind the conspiracy. "Ahmed Patel is just a name, the driving force was his boss Sonia Gandhi. Through her chief political advisor Patel, Sonia attempted to malign Gujarat's image. Through him, she attempted to defame Narendra Modi," BJP spokesperson Sambit Patra said.

'Goa Cong MLAs in TN to avoid poaching bid'

BANSY KALAPPA @ Bengaluru

AICC Goa in-charge Dinesh Gundu Rao on Saturday sought to dispel rumours after five Congress MLAs travelled to Chennai. The move had sparked speculations that the party was trying to keep its flock safe from BJP's attempts to poach them before the Presidential polls on Monday. However, Gundu Rao tweeted to clarify, "We have not shifted any MLAs. The five Congress MLAs have gone to Chennai voluntarily to avoid incessant attempts, continuous calls, pressure tactics and threats being made by Dr Pramod Sawant and the BJP to engineer a split in Goa Congress."

Gundu Rao said the MLAs — Carlose Ferreira, Altone D'costa, Rudolf Fernandes, Sankalp Amonkar and Yuri Alemao — will be back in Panaji on Monday, in time to vote in the Presidential elections. The Congress has been backing the candidature of Yashwant Sinha and the party's unit in Goa had asked its MLAs to ensure that they remain present for the voting. "The Congress MLAs will continue their work as an effective Opposition in the Goa Assembly and will take up the issues concerning the people," Gundu Rao said. Sources, however, said the lawmakers were at an undisclosed location in Chennai.

A senior Goa leader asked, "If Congress has not shifted them, then what is Mukul Wasnik doing in the picture standing with them? It is not wrong for Congress to shift them." The leader added that the MLAs are being offered amounts "over ₹25 crore".

Jawan shoots 3 colleagues, kills self in J&K

SRINAGAR: An Indo-Tibetan Border Police (ITBP) jawan fired at three of his colleagues before shooting himself dead at a camp in Udhampur district of Jammu and Kashmir on Saturday.

The incident took place around 3:30 pm at the Devika Ghat community centre in the district.

Constable Bhupendra Singh shot at his colleagues — a head constable and two constables — injuring them, an officer told a news agency. Singh then shot himself using his INSAS service rifle. He died on the spot. The injured have been admitted to a hospital, and are out of danger.

According to preliminary reports, Singh's action was triggered by some altercation that took place between the jawans.

'Floods brought highest human toll'

PRASANTA MAZUMDAR @ Guwahati

THE two waves of floods in Assam this year were the worst ever in the state in terms of human casualties, Chief Minister Himanta Biswa Sarma said on Saturday.

"I haven't seen such floods in the state. I was told the number of casualties this year is the highest ever," he said.

The state government has provided ₹3,800 each to 1.81 lakh flood-affected families. Similarly, 1.01 lakh students, affected by the deluge, were provided ₹1,000 each to buy textbooks. Sarma said 3,03,930 houses were damaged, 25,670 of them completely, and promised that the government would rebuild them.

"From July 20-30, the ministers will be in the fields along with officials to verify the damage and identify the beneficiaries. We will spend around ₹400 crore in rebuilding the houses," the CM said. The infrastructure will be rebuilt at a cost of ₹1,000 crore.

About one lakh people were evacuated from flooded areas of Assam | EXPRESS

"We are getting extreme cooperation from the Centre. There is no package as such but everything is being done on 90:10 per cent ratio. The Centre is spending 90 per cent," he added.

Altogether 195 persons lost their lives – 19 of them in the rain-induced landslides. Thirty-seven others were reported missing. An estimated 90 lakh people were affected while crop areas damaged were in over 2.40 lakh hectares.

"One-third of the state's population was affected. A total of 54,837 cattle died. One positive exception was that the animals at Kaziranga National Park did not perish," Sarma said, adding that 7,42,250 of the marooned had taken shelter in relief camps and camp-like places. Except for the first day, when the priority of the administration was on their evacuation, they did not face any shortage of relief in the camps, he said.

"One lakh people were evacuated. It was a massive and challenging operation," Sarma said, adding that there was not a single flood-related case of diarrhoea or cholera.

Right-wing men held over Lulu Mall protest

LUCKNOW: Several right-wing activists were arrested after they gathered outside Lulu Mall in Lucknow on Saturday and staged protests over the ongoing namaz video row. On Friday, four people had been arrested for reciting the Sundar Kand outside the Lulu Mall.

Right-wing activists have been protesting after a video showed a group of men offering namaz inside the mall, which was inaugurated last Saturday.

"After the video surfaced on social media on Tuesday, an FIR was lodged. Police are going through CCTV footage," said Rajesh Srivastava, ADCP, South Lucknow.

The mall, owned by MA Yusuf Ali of Abu Dhabi-based LuLu Group, was inaugurated by UP Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath on last Sunday. ENS

BIDEN RAISES KHASHOGGI'S CASE AMIDST OIL DISCUSSION

Prince Mohammed attacks US over torturing detainees in Iraq

JEDDAH

US President Joe Biden is set to discuss volatile oil prices during a summit with Arab leaders on Saturday in Saudi Arabia, the final stop of his Middle East tour. On his first trip to the region as president, Biden is also looking to outline his vision for Washington's role in the region in order to not cede influence to Russia and China.

He plans to announce Saturday that the US is committing $1 billion in food aid to the Middle East and North Africa amid rising food insecurity induced by the war in Ukraine, a senior official told reporters. Saturday's meeting in Jeddah will bring together leaders of the six-member Gulf Cooperation Council as well as Egypt, Jordan and Iraq.

Biden landed Friday in Saudi Arabia, a longtime US ally he once vowed to make a "pariah" over its human rights record, and met with King Salman and de facto ruler Crown Prince Mohammed bin Salman.

Tensions had been high between Biden and Prince Mohammed, especially after Biden's administration released US intelligence findings that Prince Mohammed "approved" an operation targeting journalist Jamal Khashoggi, whose killing and dismemberment in Saudi Arabia's Istanbul consulate in 2018 spurred global outrage. After a fist-bump greeting with Prince Mohammed, Biden said he raised Khashoggi's case "at the top" of their discussions, adding that he "made it clear if anything occurs like that again they will get that response and much more", without clarifying. The Al-Arabiya channel quoted a Saudi official saying the pair "addressed the issue of Jamal Khashoggi quickly" and that Prince Mohammed "confirmed that what happened is regrettable and we have taken all legal measures to prevent" a recurrence.

Prince Mohammed also pointed out that "such an incident occurs anywhere in the world", highlighting "a number of mistakes" made by Washington such as torturing detainees at Abu Ghraib prison in Iraq. Biden faces pressure to raise human rights issues after dozens of British and US lawmakers urged him to discuss Egypt's "extensive architecture of repression" in talks with his Egyptian counterpart Abdel Fattah al-Sisi. AFP

Biden says US 'will not walk away' from Middle East

JEDDAH

PRESIDENT Joe Biden, speaking at a summit of Arab leaders, said Saturday that the United States "will not walk away" from the Middle East as he tries to ensure stability in a volatile part of the world and boost the global flow of oil to reverse rising gas prices.

His remarks, delivered at the Gulf Cooperation Council on the final leg of a four-day Middle East tour, came amid concerns about Iran's nuclear ambitions and support for militants in the region.

"We will not walk away and leave a vacuum to be filled by China, Russia or Iran," Biden said. "We will seek to build on this moment with active, principled, American leadership." Although US forces continue to target terrorists in the region and remain deployed at bases throughout the Middle East, Biden suggested he was turning a page after the US invasions of Iraq and Afghanistan. "Today, I'm proud to be able to say that the era of land wars in the region, wars that involved huge numbers of American forces, is not under way," he said.

He announced $1 billion in US aid to alleviate hunger in the region and he pressed his counterparts, many of whom lead repressive governments, to ensure human rights, including women's rights, and allow their citizens to speak openly.

"The future will be won by the countries that unleash the full potential of their populations," Biden said. AP

G20 finance meetings in Bali overshadowed by war

Bangkok: Financial leaders of the Group of 20 richest and biggest economies agreed at meetings on the Indonesian resort island of Bali this week on the need to jointly tackle global ills such as inflation and food crises, but failed to bridge differences over the war in Ukraine. As G-20 host this year, Indonesia has sought to bridge divisions between G-20 members over Russia's invasion, but enmity over the conflict was evident even as the finance ministers and central bank chiefs concurred on other global challenges that have been worsened by the war. All involved agreed the meeting took place "under a very challenging and difficult situation because of the geopolitical tensions," Indonesian Finance Minister Sri Mulyani Indrawati said. She said delegates had expressed sympathy that Indonesia has to manage this situation

$2.001 bn US currency RBI purchased on net basis from the spot market in May. The central bank remained net buyer of dollar in the month

HDFC Bank's net profit up 19% at ₹9,196 crore

On a sequential basis, however, net profit was down by nearly 9%

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

INDIA'S largest private sector lender HDFC Bank on Saturday reported a 19% rise in standalone net profit to ₹9,196 crore for the quarter eneded June 30, 2022 (Q1FY23) as against ₹7,730 crore in the corresponding quarter last year (Q1FY22).

On a sequential basis, however, net profit was down by nearly 9% as the lender had reported a profit of ₹10,055 crore in Q4FY22.

The bank's total revenue grew by 13% to ₹41,560 crore in Q1FY23 as against ₹36,771 crore in Q1FY22. Sequentially, it was nearly flat as the lender's revenue stood at ₹41,086 crore in Q4FY22.

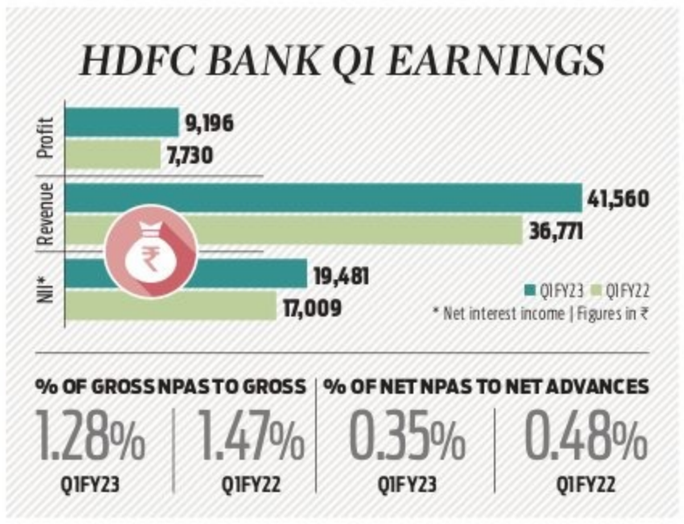
The private sector lender's net interest income (NII), the difference between the interest earned and the interest expended, rose 14.5% YoY to ₹19,481 crore from ₹17,009 crore in the same quarter the previous year. The rise came on the back of 22.5% year-on-year growth in advances, 19.2% rise in deposit and total balance sheet growth of 20.3%.

As of June 30, the size of HDFC Banks' total balance sheet stood at ₹21, 09,772 crore while total deposits stood at ₹1,604,760 crore. Current account savings deposits grew by 20.1%, while savings account deposits stood at ₹5,14,063 crore for the quarter under review. Current account deposits were at ₹220,584 crore, the lender said.

The bank's total loans were at ₹13, 95,068 crore as of June 30, up 21.6% YoY. Its retail loans, accounting for 39% of loan book, grew by 21.7% YoY, while commercial and rural banking loans rose 28.9% YoY. Corporate and other wholesale loans grew 15.7%, while overseas advances made up 3.5% of total advances, the bank regulatory filing showed.

HDFC Bank's gross non performing assets (GNPA) fell in Q1FY23 to 1.28% compared with 1.47% in Q1FY22. It was, however, higher than 0.32% reported in Q4FY22. The net non-performing assets (NNPA) came down to 0.35% in Q1FY23 as against 0.48% in Q1FY22. NNPA was 0.32% in Q4FY22.

The bank made provisions worth ₹3,187.7 crore for the first quarter of FY23, which are down 34% from the year-ago quarter's ₹4,830.8 crore. Provisions in the March quarter came at ₹3,312.35 crore.



NEWSCOPE

ACTION ON FOREIGN COMPANIES MARS INVESTMENT OPTICS

GURBIR SINGH

A desperate Twitter, facing government action for not taking down dozens of 'suspect' accounts, has rushed to the Karnataka High Court seeking judicial intervention. Meanwhile, a clutch of Chinese cell phone operators in India have been facing raids by Indian investigative agencies. These moves have once again kindled the debate on the freedom to do business in India by foreign companies.

Social media giant Twitter, with 24 million users in India, was issued notice by the Ministry of Electronics and Information Technology threatening action under Section 69(A) of the Information Technology (IT) Act for not removing 60 or more accounts and tweets of journalists, politicians and other activists.

Twitter's case is that the 'takedown' diktat falls short of the procedural requirements; and that as a 'intermediary' social media platform, it cannot ride roughshod over the rights and freedom of expression of its users. It has also pointed out that on national security, obscenity, terrorism and other such issues, it has acted with alacrity and removed more than 46,000 accounts and tweets in recent months.

Union IT minister Ashwini Vaishnaw has justified action against Twitter and others, stating that these companies are answerable to the laws of the land, and that his government was committed to make "social media more accountable".

The long arm of the law – Sec 69(A) of the IT Act – empowers the government to block digital content in the interests of the sovereignty and security of the state, and safeguarding 'public order'. However, these powers seem to have been selectively but widely used to cripple opposition movements and snuff out inconvenient criticism. Alt News founder Mohammed Zubair's incarceration is just the tip of the iceberg. The fact is: India is among the 5 countries last year which accounted for 96% of the global requests made to Twitter for removing content. The others were Japan, Russia, South Korea and Turkey.

Walloping the Chinese

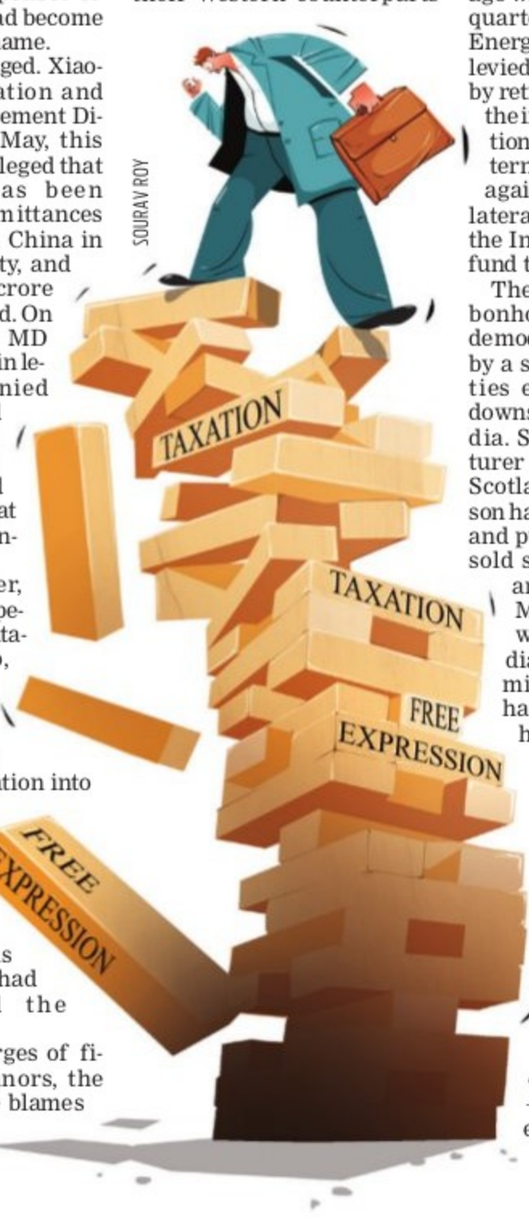
In the case of the Chinese mobile companies, the heat began soon after the border face-off with China in 2020. Companies like Vivo and Xiaomi had been earlier feted as makers of affordable smart phones; and as a sponsor of IPL cricket, Vivo had become quite a household name.

All that has changed. Xiaomi faced investigation and raids by the Enforcement Directorate (ED) in May, this year. The ED has alleged that the company has been making 'illegal' remittances to its principals in China in the guise of royalty, and more than ₹5,500 crore had been repatriated. On its part, Xiaomi MD Manu Kumar Jain, in legal filings, has denied wrongdoing, and claimed the company's officers faced threats and 'physical violence' at the hands of the investigative agency.

Two months later, when Twitter was petitioning the Karnataka High Court, Vivo, owned by China's BBK Electronics, had the ED all over its offices as part of an investigation into suspected money laundering. To add to the excitement, the ED said two of the company's top officials were missing and had probably "fled the country."

Beyond the charges of financial misdemeanors, the unstated narrative blames these Chinese tech companies for snooping and misusing their database. In short they have become a security threat. Huawei has been formally blacklisted and cannot bid for 5G telecom spectrum.

We have to wait for what the investigation throws up; but given the current atmosphere and the gamut of rules, it has become very difficult for the Chinese to do business in India. From the point of view of the consumer, it's a pity. They offered a range of affordable products from smart phones to TV sets, which many of their Western counterparts cannot match.



Exit queues getting longer

All this may win some applause from the West. For US and European governments, China represents an axis with Russia's new imperialism, and India seems the obvious South Asian bulwark against Chinese expansionism. In the new balance of power, India has an ideal opportunity to seek investment alliances with US and Europe. But that now seems to be going up in smoke.

The slide started a few years ago with the two big UK-headquartered companies – Cairn Energy and Vodafone – being levied capital gains tax in 2020 by retrospectively opening up their merger and acquisition history. Atleast two international tribunals ruled against the violation of bilateral treaties and directed the Indian government to refund the money.

The promised diplomatic bonhomie with the western democracies has been belied by a string of corporate entities either pulling out, or downsizing operations in India. Swiss cement manufacturer Holcim, Royal Bank of Scotland, and Harley-Davidson have sold their businesses and pulled out. Citibank has sold some of its businesses and is downsizing. Ford Motor Co and Tesla, both who had big plans for India, have said they have misjudged the market and have put their plans on hold. The list goes on.

The word has got around. The US State Department's Investment Climate Statement 2021 describes India as "a challenging place to do business." The taxation rules are seen as ever-changing goal posts. Unfortunately, instead of remedying the perception, the clampdown on Twitter – that violate basic western principles of free expression – will only solidify these concerns.

ECONOMY

Monitoring of trade deficit warranted: RBI

PTI @ New Delhi

AMID hostile international environment, close and continuous monitoring of the widening trade deficit and portfolio outflows is warranted, strong reserve buffers notwithstanding, an RBI article has stated.

The article, authored by a team led by Deputy Governor M D Patra, however, took comfort from the fact that recent moderation in commodity prices and easing of supply chain pressures would help the nation in escaping the global inflation trap.

The Indian economy remains resilient in the face of formidable global headwinds, it said, but added "knock-on effects of geopolitical spillovers are visible in several sectors, tapering the pace of recovery."

The international environment "is hostile and hence, close and continuous monitoring of the widening trade deficit and portfolio outflows is warranted, notwithstanding strong reserve buffers, moderating external debt and a fairly valued exchange rate that has wilted less in the face the monotonic strengthening of the US dollar than many peers", the article on state of the economy published in the RBI Bulletin for July said.

RELIEF FOR AIRLINES AS JET FUEL PRICE SLASHED

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

IN a relief to airlines, oil marketing companies on Saturday reduced the price of aviation turbine fuel by ₹3,084.94 to ₹1,38,147.93 per kilolitre in Delhi, in response to the fall in international prices. This is the second reduction in rates this year with the earlier price cut effected on June 1 by ₹1,563.97 per kl. Before that, rates were hiked by ₹6,188.25 per kl on May 16 to ₹1,23,039.71 per kilolitre.

ATF prices had peaked to ₹1,41,232.87 per kl last month after an increase of a whopping ₹19,757 per kl on June 16.

The latest cut comes as a big respite for airlines as fuel accounts for about 40% of their operational costs. In the past one year, ATF prices have more than doubled from ₹68,262 a unit to ₹1,38,148. The aviation fuel prices are revised on the 1st and 16th of every month based on rates of benchmark international oil rates in the previous fortnight. There was no change in rates on July 1.

LTIMindtree synergies to boost the entity's ability to participate in large deals

UMA KANNAN @ Bengaluru

MINDTREE and Larsen & Toubro Infotech (LTI) in May announced a mega merger that will create a scaled-up IT services provider exceeding $3.5 billion. The stock exchanges already have provided their observation letter and no objection, and the merger is now awaiting other regulatory approvals.

There is a steering committee that meets regularly to oversee the integration plan. "We recently won a large deal with a Europe-based global travel technology company in partnership with LTI to provide end-to-end development and support services for the company's customer services applications," Venu Lambu, executive director and President, global markets at Mindtree, told TNIE.

The merged entity LTIMindtree will combine the complementary strengths of both companies and this will boost the ability of the two companies to participate in large deals and strengthen partnerships with ecosystem players. Lambu said synergies between the two companies are already producing results.

The company reported ₹3,121.1 crore revenue, a 36% increase in the first quarter of FY23 compared to ₹2,291.7 crore in the year-ago period.

It also saw the highest-ever order book of $570 million. Mindtree delivered its sixth consecutive quarter of over 5% revenue growth.

When asked about the tech demand environment, Lambu said there are no indications yet of any significant change in client behaviour.

"Organisations across sectors are today convinced that digital transformation is indispensable in creating long-term competitive advantage. They are looking at digital transformation to improve revenues as well as optimise costs, more so through macroeconomic shifts of the kind we are witnessing now," he added.

Cross-currency headwind

Though Mindtree's retail, CPG and manufacturing business grew 15.6% YoY, it was 8.7% down sequentially. Lambu said the sequential decrease was because of client-specific issues and significant cross-currency headwind. He called it as pockets of softness in certain areas depending on what specific clients retail and their supply chain dependencies involving China or Russia.

Synergies between 2 firms are producing results. It posted ₹3,121.1 cr revenue, a 36% rise in Q1FY23, as against ₹2,291.7 cr in Q1FY22

"The good news is that these clients will soon have to start getting ready to support the next peak festive season marked by the highest sales and profits. That should help navigate and mitigate some of the headwinds of softness in certain areas of the sector," he said. In Q1 FY23, its banking, financial services and insurance business grew 6.5% sequentially and 31.7% Y-o-Y. The firm's youngest industry group, Health, continued its strong growth trajectory, with a 43.5% sequential and 170.4% Y-o-Y growth. Earlier in the quarter, Mindtree made a strategic investment in COPE Health Solutions, a leading US healthcare consulting and implementation, to expand its healthcare business.

"We are seeing good client traction with that investment in the areas of value-based care, clinical workforce management, and population health management. It is helping us play at the intersection of health and technology," he said. The company has been making investments in metaverse solutions and capabilities. "Clients across verticals are evincing interest in metaverse and working with us to determine the right use cases as well as the potential value," he said. Mindtree is taking two approaches in this space. One is to build a custom metaverse and implement use cases for better customer or employee engagement. The other is to create a virtual presence in established third-party metaverses.

Sreeshankar clears first hurdle

Long-jumper records 8.00m to advance to final, Sable qualifies in 3000m steeplechase

INDRANEEL DAS @ Chennai

ONE good jump on that particular day. That's been their belief and that's what they have been aspiring too at the World Championships in Eugene. M Sreeshankar and his father and coach, S Murali, are relieved men after qualifying for the long jump final. After a modest outing at the Tokyo Games last year, where he failed to qualify for the final, they were under pressure to exorcise the demons of the past and perform.

On Friday evening in Eugene (Saturday morning here), when Sreeshankar cleared 8m, though .15m short of automatic qualification, he qualified as one of the top 12 jumpers for the final. This is the first time that an Indian has qualified for the final in the men's long jump. Anju Bobby George, who won bronze in long jump at the Paris Worlds in 2003, was the first ever medallist from India.

"We have come here to do well," said Murali. "Though the jump was not up to our expectation, it was enough to qualify. Saturday (final) will be another day and one good jump is all we need. Hope for the best." He did not want to delve too much on Friday's jump and instead focus more on Saturday. And Sreeshankar's target would be to not fret about results but enjoy and do hisbest.

M Sreeshankar became 1st Indian man to qualify for the long jump final on Friday | AP

Sreeshankar is in fact the second joint leader this season with a jump of 8.36m. Olympic champion, Mitliadis Tentoglou is the other who has touched that mark. The season leader is Simon Ehammer of Switzerland with a jump of 8.45m. However, on Friday, only two men managed to cross the qualifying mark of 8.15m -- Japan's Yuki Hashioka (8.18m) and Marquis Dendy (8.16m).

Murali was relieved to have overcome the qualifying hurdle. It had been quite a torrid time after missing out in Tokyo, where he could not jump his best due to multiple reasons, including fitness. There was criticism and intense scrutiny and that led to unsavoury moments, involving Athletics Federation of India too. Especially when it came to training in Palakkad, Sreeshankar's hometown rather than shift to a national camp either in Patiala or Benglauru. The two, in their own admission, often had nightmares after dealing with officials.

This season, though, everything seem to have fallen in place for Sreeshankar. The AFI hired a foreign coach for horizontal jumps and the two joined national camp in Bengaluru in late April. The two focused harder and with a point to prove. The other two jumpers, Jeswin Aldrin and Muhammad Anees Yahiya, failed to qualify. Aldrin managed 7.79m, while Anees 7.73m. In 3000m steeplechase, the ever-improving Avinash Sable once again showed consistency to qualify automatically for the final on Monday night (Tuesday morning India time). The national record-holder, who had been training in the US for more than two months, clocked 8:18.75s.

Note: Long jump results could be decided by 8 AM*

MIXED START FOR INDIAN ATHLETES

M Sreeshankar and Avinash Sable advanced to the final of their respective events on Day 1 of the World Athletics Championships. A look...

SREESHANKAR JUMPS 8.00M

The Indian youngster showcased his credentials with a jump of in excess of 8.00m for the first time at a world-level event. Among both qualifying groups, it was the seventh best. The final, which will be one of the highlights in Saturday's afternoon session, has a loaded field as all the big guns safely advanced.

GOOD HOME STRETCH FOR SABLE

After taking the race, the Indian steeplechase national-record holder fell behind. However, in the home stretch, he produced a good finishing kick to finish third in his heat to advance automatically. He clocked 8:18.75. The final, which will see the likes of Olympic champion Soufiane el Bakkali and Lamecha Girma, is set for Monday.

TAJINDERPAL WITHDRAWS ON EVE OF EVENT

Shot-put specialist, Tajinderpal Singh Toor, withdrew before the qualifying event because of an injury he picked up on the eve of the event. He had a few warm-up throws but didn't want to take his chance. The injury is serious enough to rule him out of the CWG.

ALL EYES ON MEN'S 100M FINAL

The highlight, as always, on Day 2 of the Championship will be the men's 100m final. If the heats is anything to go by, the US could walk away with all three medals. Fred Kerley, the clear leader in this discipline this year, scorched the track with a barely believable 9.79m in qualifying.

FELIX FINISHES INTERNATIONAL CAREER WITH ANOTHER MEDAL

The legendary Allyson Felix brought down the curtains on her illustrious international career with a bronze in the mixed 4x400m relay. For a period of time, it looked like US would walk away with gold but for stunning anchor legs from both Dominican Republic and Netherlands.

AGENCIES @ Singapore

INDIAN shuttler PV Sindhu stormed into the Singapore Open title clash with a commanding win over lower-ranked Japanese Saena Kawakami in the women's singles semifinal, here on Saturday.

Sindhu, a double Olympic medallist, who had claimed two Super 300 titles at Syed Modi International and Swiss Open this year, prevailed 21-15, 21-7 over world number 38 Kawakami in a 32-minute last-four clash.

The 27-year-old from Hyderabad, who has also claimed a bronze medal at the Asian Championships this year, is now one win away from her maiden Super 500 title of the 2022 season.

In the finals, the third seeded Indian will face China's 22-year-old Wang Zhi Yi, the reigning Asian Championships gold medallist, who was also part of the Uber Cup team, which won the silver at Bangkok this year. Wang beat Japan's Ohori Aya 21-14, 21-14. Sindhu had defeated world number 11 Wang in their only meeting at the All England Championships this year. AS ENGLAND AND INDIA GO UP AGAINST EACH OTHER FOR ONE LAST TIME IN THE TOUR, A LOOK AT KEY TALKING POINTS...

SLOW START A CONCERN

One of the key concerns for India over the years has been starting slowly in the powerplay at times, especially while chasing, and eventually crumbling in the middle overs as it happened at Lord's. As Rohit Sharma said, the batters will have to be more proactive in their approach to stay in the contest.

SURYA'S SHOW OF PROMISE

For a brief while in the middle-overs, Suryakumar Yadav looked at home. Although he got out at the wrong time, the 31-year-old has shown a lot of promise to keep the momentum going for India between overs 10-40, something they have struggled with in the past.

LEFT-ARM TROUBLE

28-year-old Reece Topley showed at Lord's what has been proven from time to time, especially in ICC tournaments. Indian top-order struggles against left-arm pacers. Particularly, those who can swing the ball both ways. It has cost India at various vital points of global events and Rohit Sharma and Co would want to address it sooner than later.

TNPL setting an example for T20 leagues in states

VENKATA KRISHNA B @ Coimbatore

DUE to various reasons, the different state leagues that were started after the success of Indian Premier League over the years have struggled to survive the test of time. But as the Tamil Nadu Premier League is running in full throttle in its sixth year in front of packed houses in Coimbatore, it appears the tournament is only growing from strength to strength on and off the field.

Let's make it clear. The road so far hasn't been easy for the franchises, who not too long ago approached the Tamil Nadu Cricket Association (TNCA), asking the state unit to help them out. Although franchises were sold in the price range of ₹3.3 to ₹5.3 crore in the initial couple of seasons, they struggled to make ends meet.

However, over the last couple of seasons, the story is beginning to change.

SOLAR POWER, THE WAY FORWARD

47-year-old Sanjay Deshpande, a Hubballi-based architect, is on a mission to promote solar energy and do his bit to the environment

ARUNKUMAR HURALIMATH
@Hubballi

THE Sun, the very source of life, gives us everything, from essential vitamins to nourishing the environment. As global warming is affecting us in myriad ways, tapping abundant energy from the Sun and using it to replace non-renewable energy sources, like fossil fuels, is the way forward. This architect-cum-solar man from Hubballi, 47-year-old Sanjay Deshpande, has clearly understood this.

Sanjay uses solar power to meet energy needs of his entire house and also office. He drives an electric car and also runs solar-powered pumps to water his garden. In monetary terms, his savings are Rs 18,000 per month and apart from this, he earns Rs 1,000 from the power supply company by selling the solar power he generates.

It was a visit from the father of one of his friends, when Sanjay was studying in Mumbai, that inspired him to start tapping free and green solar power. The friend's father advised Sanjay to place a solar panel outside the window to protect the room from scorching sunlight and also to generate power to run the fan throughout the night without any disruption.

Sanjay says, "Earlier, I used to pay Rs 4,000 as electricity bill. I have two-electric vehicles, household machinery, pumps to water the terrace garden, fountains and more. Last year, I installed solar panels on the rooftop. I was given permission to set up a solar system that generates an average 4.2 kW of solar energy, which is supplied to the Hubballi Electricity Supply Company (Hescom) after my usage. Hescom, after deducting my electricity bill, returns anywhere between Rs 500 and Rs 1,000 every month," he says.

> Instead of giving free electricity to farmers and the poor, the government should provide them with solar power generating equipment which is a one-time investment and also runs without any power supply disruption
> Sanjay Deshpande

He has also placed small solar panels on windows and balconies which generate small quantities of energy to light up the veranda and bed lamps. There are many lights that automatically come on after dusk with the help of sensors reducing wastage.

He has turned his office too green. Six months ago, he installed solar panels of 3kW capacity and has not used power supplied by Hescom since then, and pays only the meter charges every month. "There are three types of solar panels - monocrystalline, polycrystalline and thin-film. I installed monocrystalline panels which are highly efficient even during rain and generate over 60 per cent power," he adds.

Every day, he travels anywhere between 50 and 60 km to reach various work sites. His wife too uses an electric car to go to the office. Earlier, their monthly fuel expense was around Rs 18,000. Recently, they shifted to electric vehicles, saving money and also the environment.

Besides implementing green ideas in new constructions in Hubballi-Dharwad, he tries to influence the government to promote solar power and to give big subsidies for related equipment. He has pitched his idea to Prime Minister Narendra Modi too, through a letter. "Instead of giving free electricity to farmers and the poor, the government should provide them with solar power generating equipment which is a one-time investment and also runs without any power supply disruption," he says.

"Everyone should make use of solar energy as it is abundantly available and makes us self-reliant. You will get back the investment on solar energy systems in 4-5 years. As they run for another 10-15 years, you will save a lot of money in power bills. The government should come up with new policies to promote solar energy," he concludes.

Biker from Udupi enthusiastically pursues her passion, masters circuit and dirt track racing

HITTING THE RACETRACK

PRAKASH SAMAGA @ Udupi

THIS bikerni is elated when astride her bike, and becomes one with the machine as she tears down a race track. It's almost as if the bike breathes life into her. Apoorva Bykadi (25), whose passion for two hot wheels took her to dirt track tracing, has proved that the sport is not confined to the male domain. Unafraid of bruises and scars that accompany the sport, she pursues her passion rather seriously.

Ever since she was 16, Apoorva had always wanted to take up bike racing, which she thought was an expensive sport. While pursuing mechanical engineering at Nitte, she didn't think much about it, especially as she was also into basketball and handball. She had also won a bronze in Muay Thai Indian National Federation, organised by the Senior National Amateur Muay Thai Championship, held in Sikkim in 2017.

Yet, Apoorva never let go her dream of bike racing, though there were no options to learn it in the coastal districts. She thought she should go to Chennai for lessons, but continued with normal biking, tamping down on her enthusiasm.

In 2015, she joined the Mangalore Bikerni Group, which set her on the path of adventure. "We have a team in Mangalore Bikerni, an all-woman riders' chapter in the coastal city When I joined the group, I started enjoying and exploring biking," she says.

After her mechanical engineering in 2018, Apoorva joined an edutech company in Udupi as a business development associate, but the 9-5 job meant giving up sports, and she began feeling listless. Quite suddenly, things changed when she came across a poster on Instagram about a TVS one-make championship to be held in Bengaluru in 2019. "In a one-make championship, everybody gets bikes of the same make to compete. It was a training and selection process," she said. "I never thought I would get selected back then. But I did, and the tricks I learnt there helped me a lot. Initially, it was circuit racing, but now I am into dirt track racing as well," she said.

There were 45 women of different age groups, many of them social media stars. Apoorva got selected from South Zone. At the MRF MoGrip FMSCI Indian National Rally Championship 2W event (ladies class) held in Chikkamagaluru, and the Rally De Mangaluru - Round 2 of MRF MoGrip FMSCI Indian National Rally Championship in Panja, Apoorva won second prize. She is confident of giving her best in the upcoming rounds as well.

She threw up her job to pursue her passion, with parents Bharathi and B K Narayan extending all support. "I'm happy that my parents accepted my preference. My father let me explore the sport independently," Apoorva says with pride.

She has honed many biking skills, like how to lean, turn and brake, especially after she joined 'KAT Racing' in Mangaluru. Superbike mechanic and KAT Racing owner Yogish helped her learn the intricacies of the machine. Apoorva also got her modified Hero Impulse from Yogish, who tunes bikes for races.

Racing is an amazing experience, she contends. "Circuit racing is all about speed and braking. The mind is completely focused. One second of distraction can play spoilsport. Dirt track racing is about body balance, endurance and managing our bikes. Both categories need different skill sets. Dirt racing is rather tough as there are obstacles like stones, gravels, mud and slush, and needs all parts of the body to focus on it," she says.

Racing championships means spending a tidy sum of money, she admits. Entry fee is usually high, and for national rallies, each round has a fee of ₹4,000, with six rounds in all. The rider has to get a mechanic along as the bike can break down, and caretakers and friends also accompany the rider.

LONG WAIT

Residents await rail underbridge to battle traffic

S LALITHA @Bengaluru

SEVEN years ago, the Railway Board approved the construction of a road underbridge (RUB) between the railway stations in Yesvantpur and Malleswaram to eliminate the railway level crossing (LC) gate at Milk Colony Road. However, there is no clarity either from the BBMP nor railways on when it would materialise. Every time a train passes, there are long queues on both sides of the gate.

Originally planned as a road overbridge (ROB) 12 years ago, it was later converted into an RUB as it would ensure less land acquisition. The project was approved by the Railway Board in 2014-2015 on a 50:50 cost sharing basis with the state government. The main bridge would be built by the constructions department of the South Western Railway Zone while construction of the approach roads would be BBMP's responsibility.

Priti Rajesh, a resident of Brigade Gateway residential complex nearby, told TNSE was miffed about the serpentine queues on either side of the gate during peak morning and evening hours. "There are two schools here and a hospital. It is really annoying to watch ambulances getting stuck in front of the gate. LC gate was meant to be eliminated years ago but there is no progress," she said.

Retired bank official CR Venkatesh, who resides nearby, said, "It is a 15-minute wait. When two trains pass within a short span, it is more than 20 minutes."

A top official from the construction department said that BBMP has to ready the general alignment plan. "A joint meeting was held by both departments in February this year. The general arrangement drawing needs to be approved by both BBMP and the Railways before the project can move forward," he said.

BBMP Chief Engineer, Road Infrastructure, Prahlad Rao had a different version. He said, "Railways has conducted a technical feasibility study here and submitted the report to its headquarters in Hubballi for approval which needs to come first," he said. MLA Dr CN Ashwath Narayan, who had inspected the area in December 2021 and promised remedial steps, did not respond to repeated calls from TNSE.

In recognition of the services of Dr Rajkumar and Puneeth, who went beyond the realm of their movies and contributed to the society, the focus will be on 'Raj Patha' - a concept where Dr Rajkumar's early life, his entry in the film industry, contribution in Gokak moment where he was central figure of unification of Karnataka, emphasis on promoting Kannada will be presented. Regarding Puneeth, the visitors will learn about his programme to rehabilitate women and his interest in educating students at Shakthi Dhama. Depts asked to draw up schemes for prisoners

The home minister further said that steps are being taken to transform the lives of the prisoners. He said a letter has been sent to all the government departments asking them to come out with schemes to involve prisoners in the projects undertaken by their departments. Prisoners in jails take up bakery, weaving mats, carpentry, soap-making among other works. Plans are also afoot to upgrade the existing machinery and facilities so that products made by the prisoners are of better quality.
